Latest Aspect of the Polish Question.

The Steam steamer City of New-York, Capt. Thomas, which left Liverpool at 8 P. M. on the 26th and Queenstown on the 27th August, arrived here early yesterday morning.

The steamship Germania, from Southampton the 26th, arrived at this port last evening.

The steamer City of Cork reached Liverpool at 4 o'clock on the afternoon of the 26th ult.

The following is a summary of the news, per steamship City of New-York, which sailed from Liverpool on the afternoon of the 26th ult., and from Queenstown on the 27th ult., at 4 o'clock P. M.

It is stated that Mr. Dudley Mann has been in Paris, and that he has had an interview with Drouyn de Lhuys, on the 16th and 21st of August.

The Central Association for the recognition of the Confederate States, at Manchester, has issued a manifesto, strongly urging recognition and friendly mediation by European Powers for the benefit of all parties.

The Times, in its City Article, says there is no belief in the threats of the Washington Government against France in regard to Mexico. The general belief is that the American government is resolved to act on the Monroe doctrine and authorized by any Power, for the first really effective threat against European Mexico, to the support of the Confederacy.

The Conference of the Germanic States have concluded at Frankfort. The result of important discussions between the Austrian Premier and Count Bismarck is making towards common understanding. Prussia holds entirely aloof.

It is stated that Garibaldi's health is perfectly restored.

THE NEWS BY THE CITY OF NEW-YORK.

A REBEL PIRATE IN A FRENCH PORT.

It was reported that a rebel man-of-war named the Alabama was rendezvoing regularly in the Imperial dockyard at Brest. The Union dispatches put Queenstown, stated that the Alabama, which put into Brest for repairs, having no MS of health on board, had been forced to go into quarantine.

FRENCH VESSELS FOR THE REBELS.

The Paris correspondent of the London Globe gives a report that sundry vessels on the Alabama model, were being built for the Confederacy in French ports. The proceedings were conducted with much secrecy, but the fact had transpired, and the Government ordered an inquiry. The writer points out that Napoleon, as the French Government, cannot interfere in such matters without being hedged in with legal restrictions, as in England, they will be fully restored to the Federal Government for such infractions of international law as they may permit.

STEAM RAMS FOR THE REBELS.

The Daily News of the 26th, publishes the following paragraph, which was sent from the Continent of the Emancipation Society to Earl Russell on the 24th, and the Daily News editorially calls upon the representatives of prompt action thereon in the matter:

To the Right Hon. Earl Russell, &c., &c.

The committee of the Emancipation Committee of the Emancipation Society humbly showeth:

That your memorialists desire to call your Lordship's attention to a subject of very grave importance, namely, that certain persons, regardless of the proceedings already taken by the Italian Government to stop such practices, have equipped vessels of a very formidable kind, which are about to sail from England to attack any open a nation with which this country is at peace, and a people very nearly allied to us by ties of kinship and commerce. In particular, your memorialists are informed, and earnestly call upon your Lordship to make immediate investigation into the fact, that two powerful iron-clad steam rams, which, for some time, have been in preparation in the Mersey, by the builders of the Alabama, are now almost ready for sea; that the owners are seeking to contract with steel, power and turrets, and are intended for the purpose of blockading the fortifications of the Government and capital of the United States of America. One, it is believed, will sail on or about the 27th of the present month of August, and is to be provisioned by the Confederate war vessel Florida, now lurking off the British coast, for the purpose. Another iron-clad was almost destined for the same service, to accompany completion in the Clyde, in view of what Her Majesty's Government has recently done in the case of the Alabama and Florida, your memorialists, and of a foreign Minister, are confident in some measure deterred practices, your memorialists cannot doubt that the law will be enforced against the parties and vessels concerned in a spirit of loyalty and good faith to an allied nation struggling for constitutional freedom and emancipation against a rebellion of slaveholders.

May it therefore please your lordship to order a prompt investigation into the circumstances above recited, and if necessary for this purpose to stop in the meantime the departure of the war vessel which is nearly ready, and to apply the law with vigor to prevent hostile acts against a friendly Power contending for human freedom.

And your petitioners will ever pray.

W. T. MARSDEN, Joint Treasurers.
E. W. CLARKE, Hon. Secretary.

COMMENTS OF THE NEWS.

It will be seen from the memorial to Earl Russell, which appears in another column, that there is reason to believe the authorities of the Admiralty, contrary to the declaration of the legal representatives of the Crown that the building of that vessel was an offence against the laws of the neutrality, intended to launch two powerful iron-clad steam rams against the commerce of the United States. It will be a disgrace to the country and to the administration of our laws if these vessels are allowed to leave the Mersey. It appears, however, that there is no time to be lost, as one of them is said to be on the point of sailing to-morrow. The duty of the Government to act is clear, as on plain as it is urgent. If there is, as the memorialists allege, good grounds to suspect the character and destination of these vessels, their departure ought to be arrested, if need be, by telegraph and without a moment's unnecessary delay; until the charges against them have been fully investigated. There was an acknowledged failure of justice in the case of the Alabama, through want of proper vigilance and promptitude, too after the strong remonstrances of the Government as to the law of the case, and their decided action with regard to the Alabama, we can scarcely to assume that no such neglect on the administration of our own laws, as well as in the discharge of our duty toward a friendly Power will be allowed to occur again.

ANTI-SLAVERY CONFERENCE.

RESPONSE BY PRESIDENT LINCOLN TO THE MANCHESTER ADDRESS.

The following communications have been received by Mr. THOMAS B. FORSTER, of Manchester, in reply to the letter addressed to the President of the United States, inclosing the address and other documents adopted by the Anti-Slavery Conference held in Manchester on the 2d of June last:

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES,
LONDON, Aug. 22, 1863.

SIR: The President of the United States having received, at the hands of Rev. Drs. MASSIE and KENNEDY, the address of the meeting recently held at the Free Trade Hall, Manchester, I have now the honor, under instructions from Washington, to forward to you the accompanying letter, in reply, from the Secretary of State. I have the honor to be, Sir, your obedient servant, CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS.

THOMAS BAYLEY FORSTER, Esq., &c.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE,
WASHINGTON, July 24.

SIR: I have had the honor to receive from the Rev. Drs. MASSIE and the Rev. Dr. KENNEDY, your address in the name of a large public meeting, which was recently held at Free Trade Hall, in Manchester, to the President of the United States, together with papers which constitute the accompaniments of that communication. These papers have been submitted to the President of the United States, and I am charged by him to express the high satisfaction with which he has read them. He does it the more heartily, and with a profound sense of the obligation which the reverend gentlemen present to France, and the reverend religious people in Great Britain have laid upon the world by their correspondence with each other, and their public address of the Christian ministers and citizens assembled in Manchester. The proceedings of the meeting at Free Trade Hall, and its address to the President, so fittingly and suitably harmonize with the sentiments which prevailed in that correspondence before mentioned.

The parties in these proceedings will readily understand that the attempted revolution in the United States seriously affects this Government and American society, first, in many ways which is not fallen within the purpose of these partnerships strange line. While the interests thus naturally, and not unnaturally, overlooked in Europe further the strongest possible motives in the people of the United States for overcoming the insurrection, and maintaining the constitutional Government established by the hands of their fathers; the President, therefore, accepts, and draws, as an additional and irresistible motive, the suggestion made by the friends of humanity in Europe, that the success of the insurrection would result in the establishment, for the first time, in the history of the human race, of a State based upon the exclusive foundations of African Slavery.

I have the honor to be, Sir,

Your very obedient servant,
WILLIAM H. SEWARD.

THOMAS BAYLEY FORSTER, Esq., Manchester, England.

THE REBEL LOAN.

From the London Times, Aug. 25, of last.

In the foreign market to-day the principal movement was again in the Confederate Loan, which has experienced a further recovery of 2 per cent, sliding at 20 to 22 discount. Part of this rally is probably due to the Government really intend to make the establishment of the Mexican kingdom a rather better age than Francis, but, although Mr. SEWARD is stated to have notified to March last that, sooner, no Government would the United States tolerate the introduction into Mexico of any other form of Government than the Republican, there is a general conviction that the notice on the subject will now be made and to be wholly unattended with any threats. Whatever may be the feeling with which the Washington politicians may act, the Mexicans, the Mexicans are in no mood to submit to the dictation of the Republic. Juarez is a Republican himself, and the Mexicans are not prepared to be dragged into the Republic against their will. Under the circumstances, Napoleon is making towards common understanding. Prussia holds entirely aloof.

It is stated that GARIBALDI's health is perfectly restored.

AFFAIRS IN ENGLAND.

Poland and Russia—German Federal Congress—The Peterhof—The Florida—A Desperate Fusk—The Cotton Prospect—The News by the Scotia—The Draft—The South Arming Negroes—Overclaugh of the South—Wholesale Confiscation and Occupation—A Princess in a Delicate Situation.

LONDON, Saturday, Aug. 22, 1863.

As the Summer wears away we hear less and less of the prospect of war in behalf of Poland. It is hoped that [illegible] Russia will be conciliatory, but whether he is or not, the Western Powers will hardly come to war for such a myth as Polish nationality. Russia may, [illegible] The Czar has [illegible] Crimea in consolidating his vast empire, and does not fear united Europe. His seaports are as impregnable as then, well-nigh beyond the reach of [illegible] of forgotten disaster.

The Congress of Emperors, Kings and Grand Dukes at Frankfort on the Main discusses Federal [illegible] Germany. It is [illegible] pro[illegible] jealousies of Austria and Prussia may postpone its realization. A united Germany in the centre of Europe, with its vast, intelligent and military population, would regulate the affairs of this portion of the world [illegible] Yet there are great obstacles in the way. Austria and Bavaria are Catholic. Prussia and the North are Protestant. United Germany could not be neutral, as between these great European interests. Prussia naturally sympathizes with Russia [illegible] Austria as naturally goes with France and Spain in religious questions. I judge, therefore, that the German Federation, as proposed by Austria, however desirable or desired, must wait until some other matters are settled.

The owners and consignees of the Peterhof are not at all inclined to agree with the London Times in its opinion that the decision of Judge Hertz was not far out of the way. They will seek their case with the Government with great energy. There is ground for suspicion that the Times has been a little mischievous in the matter, and that it would not be sorry for a case in which Earl Russell would be compelled to interfere. It professes to wish to see the strong views of the American Court settled into a precedent for the future. I suspect that it looks to no very distant action.

The Florida, for the past week, has been cruising about the coast of Ireland, and in the track of American ships to Liverpool. She has been laying off the Cape of Cork, carefully disguised, and there are many conjectures as to her object. It probably has something to do with the collecting of the immense sums which have been falling out in England, now in [illegible] on Federal commerce, and which must now be nearly totally [illegible]. A large quantity of silver bullion, [illegible] by one of these steamers of the Bank, has arrived in England. The underwriters propose, it is said, to make a claim on it, but I am afraid they will get little aver from English courts or juries.

The 1st of September, the battle of Gettysburgh, and the fall of Vicksburgh and Port Hudson, will be three jubilees. A year ago, [illegible] A year with a great head is an occasion. Mr. Seward has tried to comfort him. Lord MAYOR declares that the Southern Confederacy will never believe so [illegible] the United British and Confederate flags, making them look as much alike as possible, but it is all of no use. J. B. is down in the mouth. Confederate Cotton Scrip [illegible] It was getting up a little while ago. Never [illegible] protestations, and the chance for [illegible] the cotton in Mississippi, sent it down again. [illegible] feeling is [illegible]

The harvest continues good, but the cotton prospect is bad. It could scarcely be worse. Cotton will not come from any where, no matter how much it is wanted. India and Egypt do not balance the deficiency, even at the high prices. They will do nothing at low prices. West Kentucky is plenty of cotton at sixpence a pound. What can one do with a quarter cotton at double or treble prices? It will not do. Old Lancashire sits the whole thing out. Cotton interest stand on the brink of ruin. Two years' experience goes to prove that American shows can supply the world with cotton.

The number of paupers in Lancashire has diminished. I should think one-third have found employment there or elsewhere, but an immense mass still remain to be provided for, and an immense capital will be lost, if a supply of the raw material is not forthcoming.

The news by the Scotia, which arrived yesterday, was very disappointing. Only six or two items caused any rebuff. No one can see why a General who showed such consummate generalship in handling his forces at Gettysburg should not be determined to rescue, is he paralyzed by some red-tape official at Washington? The correspondence between Gov. Seward and President Lincoln would be interesting here if people had any confidence in SEWARD or his party. They made great professions before the war began, and have been making them ever since, with no result. In fact, the weak show of opposition to the Government both manifests and increases its growing power. I have believed that a struggle would come in the North between the National principle and the State-Rights doctrine; but I see less and less indication of any really serious opposition. A few hundred or thousand men may break into riot here and there, but every riot will only the more place the hand of Government; and I too discern an organization and an energetic leadership. [illegible] Mr. LINCOLN in his reply pleases the whole matter of the draft when he says he always placed MEN the simple ground of necessity—that necessity which must overrule the decisions of every Court in the world. The nation must have soldiers. If reaches out its hand to take them, Gov. SEYMOUR and his State Courts cannot prevent the necessary action of a nation. He and his peers, whatever they may do, will be impotent and contemptuously pushed aside by an angry and adequate [illegible]

The proposal of the Richmond Government to arm its own negro population, if carried out, would give the war a new element. There may be in the rebel States a hundred thousand slaveholders, who could pick from their negroes from two to five at a time to make soldiers. These the Davis Government might buy of their masters, so as to give them their freedom when the war was ended, unless they got it sooner by death or desertion. As army of 300,000 might be raised in this way, and, if the black regiments were properly distributed with the white ones, it ought to be a pretty good one. It might be doubted whether negroes would fight to keep their brethren in Slavery, but it appears to me that what men are once brought under military discipline they fight at the word of command. If Mr. LINCOLN can get every "Copperhead" in the North into the Army they will fight for him after three months' discipline, just as well as the most enthusiastic devotee of the Union. If the North south agreed into the field the South will send negroes to meet them, and the negroes who fight one other side will never again be enslaved. In that case the British Abolitionists, now friendly to the North, will only wish the war to go on, without much caring while she pays the cost. Victory for it is very certain that they would all go for the South to secure it, as they believed that the freedom of the negro would be thereby secured.

The special correspondent of the Times, who has been observing wisdom in Washington and Baltimore, tells us that the intention of the South is a new edition of the incursions of the Goths and Vandals, and that the soldiers who go to Mississippi and Louisiana remain there, equal upon the plantations, and set the negroes at work; that it is an undermining of the North upon the South, which is changing the whole face and character of the country. Only the remains of the Southern armies, he says, stand in the way of universal confiscation, and change of ownership, in an irregular but very effectual fashion. He takes a sanguine or gloomy view, according to his prejudices, of the. He does not intimate that England should do anything to prevent the carrying out of this policy. It would appear, by a rumor from Washington, that neither English nor French intervention is much dreaded.

You have, I think, no Princess in America yet. In England we are in a flutter of delightful anticipation and apprehension about a certain important event involving the health and happiness of Her Royal Highness the Princess of Wales, wife of the pale young gentleman who [illegible] study, whom [illegible] way one evening [illegible] at the Academy of Music. [illegible] tually dedicated [illegible] copy the following paragraph from a loyal conservative weekly paper to show how Englishmen express themselves on such occasions:

"Princesses are mortal; and are just as subject to the conditions of their mortality as other people. And, considering the relationship in which her Royal Highness stands to the sympathies and hopes of England, every true Briton will rejoice to find her taking the best care of her health and strength, and will gladly forego any social pleasure, which her physical welfare. A lady so fair should never know fatigue, a princess on none should be [illegible] from [illegible] should expose herself to no peril of body or of mind. Her happiness gives the whole nation joy, and we are well pleased to observe that, in the exuberance of the genial sympathies with the people who have so entirely [illegible] her with a proud and patriotic love, she [illegible] of her responsibilities to the throne, and [illegible] institutions of which she has become a living [illegible] and to those which [illegible] of a people [illegible] which has [illegible] kings."

After such a bit of fulsomeness as that, what need do but congratulate with a calm and even interesting accouchement a country which so many millions of hearts are fed, with such careful questions of [illegible]. Whatever may come to her, I hope and believe she will be spared such [illegible]

MONADNOCK.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Removal of the Military.

Orders have been issued by Gen. CANBY for the removal of the troops from the City, and have already, in a measure, been acted on. During the continuance of the thousands of soldiers, from all sections of the country, in this City, their conduct has elicited the admiration and commendation of citizens. They have been orderly, respectful, peaceable, and—on all occasions, civil. There has been no complaint made of an outrage on the part of their members; and notwithstanding the fact that nearly all of their ranks were composed of men more years in service, and were constantly called to a city affording temptations and opportunities for dissipation, the cases have been so rare as not to have attracted any attention. Residents of the vicinity of the various camps and other quarters bear willing testimony to the uniform good conduct of the men, and the entire absence of any annoyance attributable to their presence. It is doubtful if the same number of men of any other army in the world could [illegible] under similar circumstances leave such an excellent name behind, and carry so much of good feeling with them. Of course much credit is due for all this to the officers, whose example was convincing, and whose every care, with the special view of acquiring for their men just the fame reports they have won.

The following are the orders of Gen. CANBY above referred to:

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH PROVOST TRIBUNAL,
NEW-YORK CITY AND HARBOR,
NEW-YORK CITY, Sept. 5, 1863.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 48.—1. As the immediate necessity no longer exists, the troops now quartered or encamped in the City, with the exception of the guards at the offices of the Provost-Marshals and depots of public property, will be removed and encamped at convenient points in the vicinity.

The public property will be kept in the temporary quarters for further use, or will be removed and properly secured by the Chief Department of which it belongs, and buildings, parts of buildings, or other property not very large, used by the troops will be returned to the proprietors, in the condition in which it was rented. Brigade Commanders will appoint Boards of Survey for the purpose of ascertaining the condition of the property occupied by the troops of their brigades.

II. Drafted men by enlistment, who may desire to enter one of the six regiments from this regular army, or volunteer regiments from our own State now on duty in this command, will be assigned in accordance with their wishes, but transportation for them will not be furnished. Applications for transportation to recruiting officer will be allowed to visit the drafted men for the purpose of influencing their action.

The number to be assigned to any one regiment must conform to the rules of assignment already established. By order of Brig.-Gen. CANBY.

C. T. CHRISTENSEN, Assistant Adjutant-General.

The Police Commissioners have notified, by the following, yesterday and yesterday, Maj.-Gens. SANDFORD and DUNTZE that the services of their commands are no longer necessary, and they will be withdrawn. Our local military officers and men, to whom the following applies, are deservedly complimented by the Commissioners for their discipline, orderly conduct and fidelity, which was very generally noticed and applauded:

"Whereas, The exigency which demanded the ordering out of the militia on the 13th day of August last having passed, and there being, in the judgment of this Board, no longer occasion for their services, therefore,

"Resolved, That Maj.-Gen. SANDFORD be notified that the military force under his command may be dismissed, except such detachments as, in his judgment, are necessary to guard the Armories of the several regiments of the command.

"Resolved, That the thanks of the Board of Police be tendered to Gen. SANDFORD and DUNTZE, their staff officers respectively, and to the officers and soldiers of their divisions, for their patriotic and gallant services in the defense of the Metropolis, and for the firmness and forbearance of the important and delicate duty of enforcing public order under circumstances of intense excitement, threatening a repetition of the fearful disorders of July, great interests, present and future, depended on their firmness, discretion and activity. This Board feels bound to bear testimony to the marked discipline, orderly conduct and fidelity of the troops, and to the discretion and intelligence of the officers, displayed under all circumstances throughout the period of service.

Exemption Matters.

The Police Commissioners urge upon all members of the force drafted to avoid attempting to avail themselves of the ordinance for their exemption. The notice to this effect issued somewhile ago, is not to be forgotten, and it is to be hoped will be obeyed.

The Committee of the Fire Department have taken a similar commendable position, and request that all members of the Department drafted, and desiring exemption, will use every possible means to secure a substitute. This Committee are in attendance every day at Firemen's Hall, from 11 A. M. to 10 P. M.

The Committee under the Exemption Ordinance meet daily at their rooms, Duane-street. They, too, unanimously insist that parties claiming the benefit of the law produce, if any way possible, substitutes. They design that the Government shall have men, so far as it is in their power to procure them.

The subscriptions to the Exemption Loan amount to something over $600,000. The Insurance Companies have not yet subscribed, as they intimated they would.

The $2,000,000 ordinance which the Councilmen have passed over the Mayor's veto, was doubtless passed because of the pledge heretofore made to pass it, and to keep faith with those to whom such pledge was made. Now that matters are operating under the Supervisory ordinance, and every end desired will be accomplished, it is to be presumed that nothing more will be done about it.

BURNED BY A WOMAN.—MARY A. BROWN, a dressmaker residing in Water-street, was arrested yesterday by an officer of the Fourth Precinct, on the charge of setting Fire to the house of her mother. While the parties were in a room together, MARY threw her hand into HANNAH's coat-pocket, took the money and hurriedly left the room. Justice GIDEONSE committed her to the Tombs for trial. The money was not recovered.

AN ESCAPE FROM THE TOMBS.—THOMAS CLARK, alias CULLEN, who was sentenced in the Tombs for robbery in the first degree, made his escape from his prison-bounds, and was yesterday arrested in Cumberland-street, Brooklyn.

THE CITY GOVERNMENT.

BOARD OF COUNCILMEN.

[OFFICIAL.]

SPECIAL SESSION—Saturday, Sept. 5, 1863.

The Board met for the transaction of such business as might be brought before them, pursuant to a call signed by a majority of the members.

PRESENT—Councilmen Hayes, Healy, Keenan, Riley, Sandford, the President, Webster, McVay, Green, Brady, McCormick, Sapphin, Houghtaling, Haviland, Gow, McSweeney, Murray, O'Brien, Brandon, Russell, Friendly.

The Previous being absent at roll-call, on motion of Councilman Sandford, Councilman Webster was called to the Chair.

The minutes of the meetings held on and since Monday, July twenty-first, up to August thirteenth, were read, and, pending the reading, on motion of Mr. Sandford, [illegible]

Councilman Green moved that the further reading [illegible]

[illegible] speculation, were, of course, [illegible] to the extent of a large portion of the [illegible] market [illegible] the great rise in prices and the forcing of the movement of outside operators, [illegible] when the movement—as in the Gold speculation last January—was wound up to its utmost tension, and the daily transactions had reached a magnitude which rendered it almost a physical impossibility to get through their clearance or settlement within ordinary hours, the fall came, not gradually, as ten days ago it seemed like doing, but with the crash of Thursday and Friday last.

The public consequences have not, thus far, been serious, nor have we reason from the closing tone of the market on Saturday to anticipate any failures of an important or disastrous character. The chief speculators were not men of straw, but of wealth, or previous large means acquired from the unexceptionable and most legitimate great rise in Railway Property last Winter and Spring. In the Midsummer movement, which culminated in the panic of last week, they played for an additional heavy stake, resting their success upon the constantly enlarging circle of Street speculators and the easy facilities of the Money market, but placing their vast operations almost exclusively upon loans subject to instant call, and depending upon what they put out for an unlimited credit for the certification of their checks at Bank, while their actual and private wealth were known to be simply for the daily conduct of their business. These influences falling upon them at the critical moment, involved, of course, the necessity of immediate sacrifices in the market, which losses have been met promptly and cheerfully as their previous gains had been made easily and employed liberally, if not always wisely. As no member of the Stock Exchange has been compromised, as no Bank has lost money by the breakdown, and as Railway shareholders at large have been afforded the opportunity—which many of them have embraced—of selling out at figures which would have rounded marvelous eight months ago, the public mischief we repeat, cannot be estimated to any enlarged extent, as important, nor does it justify the implications of a banking or political nature which have been indulged in some quarters, to turn the force of an event which was certain soon to occur from the very weight of the speculation involved.

It cannot be gainsaid, therefore, for doubting the existence of any Bank combination, and in wholly denying even the value of a Treasury intervention to check the crash in Railway Stocks. The negotiation of the Secretary with the Associated Banks of New-York, Boston, and Philadelphia was neither timed with reference to it, nor calculated in its details and very gradual working through the Fall months, to make decline more inevitable than it was to disappoint bankers one a week or ten days before. The [illegible] of the negotiation as between the Government and the Banks is identically the same as in the distribution of the 5-20 cent. Loan in 1862, and the Seven-Thirty Loan of 1861-65. Each involved on the start, $50,000,000. Each involved an advance to the Banks, over the public at large, of about one per cent, in the gain of immediate interest between placing such large sums to the credit of the Treasury and their disbursement; or in the gain, (as in the 5 ₩ cent. Deposit Loan,) of the premium on the Gold interest paid in May last—after the Act of Congress authorizing new Deposits to Currency Interest—and to be paid in November, which the advantage to the Banks will cause, by limitation. They can then require the principal of the Deposit to be reimbursed, for which object the Secretary holds a reserve of $50,000,000 legal tender circulation, or they can turn it into an ordinary deposit of 5 ₩ cent., the future interest being payable in currency only.

The terms made with the Associated State Banks, in the great cities, have at all times been made liberal, showing a spirit on the part of the Government the very reverse of hostility, as charged by one of the morning journals for the political party objects in these Banks, or a want of appreciation of their public spirit. The advantages have not been made extraordinary to the Banks of the three cities, any more than they are now made unreasonable to the Country Banks and all private Bankers, including the Loan Agents in the distribution of the popular 5-20 years Loan. No great Government in Europe, in time of War, ever negotiated its Loans at so small a cost of Banking agency, nor yet with more decided mutual satisfaction to all parties concerned, including the public to whom the Loans are distributed.

The Stocks connected with the Coal Trade compare as follows with Saturday week in the course of prices at the Stock Exchange:

The panic in the Railway speculation appeared to subside at the Board of the Stock Exchange on Saturday, and before the close of the day on the Street the improvement became quite general. Early in the dealings of the morning much steadiness, comparatively speaking, was shown on New-York Central, Eries, Reading and Hudson River, while Harlem and Michigan Southern, and some of the other Western Roads, fluctuated violently, and the continued pressure to sell for cash denoted a still unsettled liquidation of accounts between the Brokers and their Bull customers. But before the close of Bank hours, on the Street, the upward turn extended to these Stocks also, and at 4 o'clock the general Share market was firm, at about the following figures, compared with Friday night:

	Fri.	Sat.		Fri.	Sat.
Gold Coin	[illegible]	131	Eastern Pref.	130	130
U. S. 6s, 1881	108	108	Mich. Central	117	119

The Money Market in the Stock Brokers to-day was less difficult than on Thursday and Friday in making up their Bank accounts, but heavy differences were paid to carry Stocks over a week or ten days. Several of the leading Bull firms, said to have been hard hit during the panic, provided for their [illegible] promptly on the day, and no default occurred among them, notwithstanding the absence from town of several of their active partners which [illegible] the assistance of the Street in the subsidence of the pressure was much stronger than on Friday night. The large speculative profits heretofore made have enabled the parties referred to, to pay heavily for the temporary use of Money to tide over the [illegible] for buyers' options at the Stock Board, or extra interest and commissions on the Street, and it is certainly to their credit that they have not not overcome the emergencies of a twenty per cent. decline, without street counting the cost or striking their colors.

There was a reaction of 1½ ₩ cent. in the price of Gold after it was known that the improved supply of Bills drawn against Stocks and Produce had reduced the shipments by the day's packet to three hundred thousand dollars. Several large parcels bought earlier in the week for export were resold, and Bills substituted at relatively lower rates. The entire shipments of the week from this port are only $900,770; but the daily demand to pay Customs was unusually active. The receipts at the Treasury on Saturday for the Popular Loan amount to $392,750; for Customs, $144,000, the lightest day of the week. The balances in the afternoon amount to $16,500,256.

The Mark-lane Express reports of the British Grain crop:

The change to cooler weather, with a little rain, though still useful to the gatherings in the southern parts of the Kingdom, has somewhat delayed the northern harvest where the corn wanted ripening. With so large an acreage still safe, some warm rain would be a great benefit to the green heads and roots; and this is now becoming a serious want in the parts of Europe, especially for the crop in Italy. Corn in Italy, Hungary and the Principalities. The wooden appearance of the Maize and new crop in many districts has this week materially affected prices, now as an average 2s. a quarter; and when the quality of the Wheat is considered, this is an immense benefit to the country. Reports are more and more confirmatory that we have much beyond an average both in yield as well as quality, and in very many instances last year's poor returns have been doubled. The country, therefore, as well as the farmer, has to be congratulated, and if the prices in some foreign ports keep a little longer at their present rates we may be able to give them a taste in the way of export, without heavy duty on the food produced by British industry. Politically speaking, these inestimable times, it is as well to have a good store of provisions, as well as powder, not only to feed the garrison, but to keep the cash more at home. France and the same countries are still gradually declining; but Danzig, from failures at home and influence abroad, commence to shudder a crown per quarter, without restricting the decline. At New-York there is a moderate tendency that way.

Mr. L. G. QUIMBY, of the Stock Exchange, and late with Messrs. LOCKWOOD & Co., and Mr. J. O. QUIMBY, late with Messrs. A. W. GREELEY & Co., have formed a Stock Commission firm at No. 19 Broad-street, under the style of QUIMBY BROTHERS.

The following in regard to the progress of the Railway system in Minnesota, is communicated by a responsible correspondent:

"The attention of the business and traveling public is called to the opening of the new line of railroad in the State of Minnesota, on the 15th this month, known as the Winona and St. Peter's, already completed from Winona to St. Charles, a distance of 30 miles.

The continuous line of this road is through the most productive and best improved portion of the State, making an outlet for the Southern half of fall latent country which from East to West. The road will be fully completed to Rochester by May next, a distance of 70 miles, and the grading is nearly finished to Owatonna, 20 miles, at which point it will connect with and form a continuous line to St. Paul, with the Central Minnesota now building. Surveys are being made from Rochester old Hastings to St. Paul, and also old Rose Mound and Mankato, insuring at an early day the completion of the great Northwest route. Negotiations are progressing for the building of a road from Winona to La Crosse, distance 20 miles, which will perfect an eastern connection with the Northwestern road to Chicago, La Crosse and Prairie du Chien to Milwaukee."

The Chicago Tribune contains as follows a new line of road through Northern Illinois:

"We alluded the other day to a new proposed railroad between here and St. Louis. We now understand that the road is composed of the Jacksonville and St. Louis Railroad and the Petonica and Petersburgh Railroad Company, which were consolidated into the St. Louis, Jacksonville and Chicago Railroad Company, and the consolidation confirmed by an Act of the last Legislature, which also gave them power to extend its main line to Chicago, and to build any branch or branches that might be necessary to connect it with any other railroad.

Twenty miles of the road north of Jacksonville is built and running, and a large portion of the roadbed has been graded, so that the cost of it will be $14,000 per mile. The route runs through an old settled and fertile portion of the country, and is the shortest between Chicago and St. Louis. Arrangements have been completed to build the road through."

GENERAL MARKETS.

NEW-YORK, Saturday, Sept. 5, 1863—6 P. M.

The receipts of the principal kinds of Produce since our last have been: 22 bbls. Ashes, 4,412 bbls. Flour, 213 bags Corn Meal, 22,078 bushels Wheat, [illegible] Rye, [illegible] Barley, [illegible] Oats, [illegible] Provisions, and 150 bbls. Whisky.

ASHES—Sales amount 40 pots, including Pots at 8⅞, and Pearls at [illegible] Stock in the Inspection Warehouse this morning 913 bbls., including 766 bbls. Pots and 147 bbls. Pearls.

BOOTS AND SHOES—Have been more active, but [illegible] the immediate requirements of the trade have been advancing. The Boston Commercial Bulletin of this morning says: "The market for Boots and Shoes opens more cheerful, prices are quite a number of Western buyers, who were here early in the season, are now a second time in the market. There is a scarcity of desirable goods, especially of gaiter and youths' grain boots, for the regular trade, and orders are considerably ahead of production. The press of army work, of which there is likely to be enough to busy the kinds of manufacturers for the next three months, rather interferes with the regular course of business, and goods have to be sent off in small lots to meet the exigencies of the Western markets, which in some cases have been swept by Government agents, who have been obliged to anticipate their regular supplies. The immense consumption and especially [illegible] stock render prices very firm and buoyant. It is understood that the Government contracts for army supplies to be delivered in October and November, will be awarded to-day."

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE REBELLION.

A brief dispatch from Cincinnati announces the reception in that city of the important intelligence that Gen. BURNSIDE captured Knoxville, East Tennessee, on the 4th inst.

Advices from White River, Ark., are to the effect that the advance of Gen. STEELE's army on the 26th drove the rebels across Bayou Metairie, killing and wounding about 100 and capturing 250. Our loss was 20.

We have a rumor from Washington that Gen. HEINTZELMAN is to command a large force in Texas, destined to stifle the contraband trade up the Rio Grande, and to serve other important purposes.

Advices from Charleston three days later—to the 4th—are received, by the arrival at Fortress Monroe of a Government dispatch steamer. The rebel flag was still flying over Sumter, but the work was a perfect ruin. Another advance against Wagner was made on Thursday last, when seventy-five rebels were "dug out" of their rifle-pits and captured. We are assured that "everything is progressing favorably."

An official dispatch from Admiral DAHLGREN was received by the Navy Department Saturday. The Admiral reports that the siege of Charleston was going on satisfactorily. The Monitors were standing fire well, although the rebels had rained upon them a tempest of shot and shell. Admiral DAHLGREN's dispatch makes no mention of the Ironsides, under which he has been reported to be laboring.

A dispatch from Gen. ROSECRANS' army, dated the 3d inst., states that the army was then well across the Tennessee, and occupied a strong position several miles south of the river, no resistance to the crossing having been shown by the rebels. ROSECRANS's cavalry, to Trenton, Ga., had failed to discover any rebels, and the report was that they were intrenched to the eastward of Chattanooga.

A correspondent with the Army of the Cumberland in a recent letter, gives additional and most interesting evidence on the subject of discontent in the South, both in and out of the rebel armies. Desertion is no longer confined to solitary individuals, but large masses of men only wait for an opportunity to quit a service which they loathe. From reliable information it would appear that 5,000 men have taken refuge in the mountains of Georgia alone, successfully resisting all the force that the authorities can bring against them. As every man the Confederates can raise is needed to oppose our troops, it will be well nigh impossible for them to disperse the refugees, whose numbers will continue to increase as the cause of the Confederacy becomes more desperate.

A gentleman at Vicksburgh writes a private letter to the St. Louis News, to the effect that the negro regiments now in process of organization down the river are being filled up very rapidly. He thinks about fifty of these regiments will be ready for service by the 1st of October. He gives it as his opinion, formed from what he has seen of these sable soldiers, and the spirit with which they enlist, that they will be a very efficient element in the service.

FROM EUROPE.

By the arrival of the steamships City of New-York, from Liverpool and Queenstown, and Germania, from Southampton, we receive advices from Europe to the 27th ult., four days later. The news is of considerable importance. There was a report that a rebel pirate steamer, named the Atlanta, had put into Brest for repairs, and having no bill of health on board, had been forced to go into quarantine. It is stated by the Paris correspondent of the London Globe, that a number of vessels on the model of the Alabama, are being constructed for the rebels in French ports. The writer points out the fact that there will be no difficulty in fastening responsibility upon the French Government, as it has supreme control over all matters relating to the shipyards. A memorial from the British Emancipation Society was, on the 25th ult., presented to Earl RUSSELL, on the subject of the new iron rams alleged to be in process of construction for the rebel Government in England. The memorial states that two powerful iron-plated steam rams have, for some time, been in preparation in the Mersey, by the builders of the Alabama, one of which was expected to sail about the 27th, and to be received by the Florida then hovering off the coast. Still another is mentioned as being built on the Clyde. Earl RUSSELL is urged to order a prompt investigation into the circumstances detailed. It does not appear from our dispatches, however, that his lordship had taken any action in the matter. The response of Mr. SEWARD to the Address to President LINCOLN, adopted by the Anti-Slavery Conference at Manchester on the 3d of June last, is published. Mr. SEWARD says that the President received the Address and the papers that accompanied it with deep satisfaction, and that he readily accepts and avows, as an additional and irresistible motive to suppress the insurrection and maintain the Constitution, the suggestion made by the friends of America in Europe, that the success of the insurrection would result in the establishment, for the first time in the history of the human race, of a State based upon the exclusive foundations of African Slavery. The rebel loan, on the 26th, was quoted at 24 to 22 discount, having recovered some 2 per cent. There was nothing new regarding the Polish question. The Liverpool Cotton market was firm at an advance. Breadstuffs and Provisions were steady. Consols were unchanged.

GENERAL NEWS.

The steamship Champion arrived at this port yesterday, from Aspinwall on the 27th ult., bring Central and South American, and from the United States of COLOMBIA. [illegible] from Salvador [illegible] the intelligence from that State brought by a previous arrival, that the Guatemalan [illegible] was at an end, on account of the defection of CARRERA's troops. It now appears that President DUEÑAS only holds the Capital and the single road to Libertad—his only revenue being from the sale of confiscated goods. There was a rumor at Panama that a revolution had been effected at Bogota by the priests against MOSQUERA, in his absence, but there is nothing definite regarding it. The few priests remaining at Panama were on the 19th still again required to take the oath to support the new Constitution, and on their refusal they were ordered to leave the country immediately. Nothing of importance was occurring in the South American States. Bolivia had as yet taken no steps to precipitate hostilities with Chili. There is considerable talk of the discovery of very rich gold and silver mines in Peru. Affairs are still unsettled between the Argentine Confederation and Uruguay.

The Board of Councilmen met specially at noon on Saturday, and passed the $2,000,000 exemption ordinance over the Mayor's veto by a unanimous vote, twenty-one members being present, and three—Messrs. ERTOR, COOK and JOYCE—were recorded in the affirmative by permission of the Board, in pursuance of their request, made through Messrs. HAYES and BRANDON. There was no debate on the question. Mr. GREENE said talk was unnecessary—the people understood the matter well. Mr. BRANDON explained his VOTE, saying that he had voted against the pledge to override the Mayor's veto, because he thought it was unnecessary to make the pledge; but he had been in favor of the ordinance from the first. The Mayor sent in a message vetoing the resolution directing the Street Commissioner "to take such measures as may be necessary to cause the immediate removal of the artillery and cavalry from all the squares, parks and other public places belonging to the City." The Mayor says the correspondence between Gov. SEYMOUR and Gen. DIX, recently published, demonstrates the necessity for the presence of the troops, to insure the peaceful enforcement of the draft; that Gen. DIX proposed to leave this duty to the military power of the State, but the Governor refused, stating that "under no circumstances could the State authorities perform duties expressly confided to others." The Mayor continues: "Inasmuch, therefore, as the enforcement of the act, one of the supreme laws of the land, was left to others, we cannot fairly find fault with these others for their presence here. * * * especially in view of the fact that they have saved our City from another disgraceful outbreak." The Mayor concludes by saying that "the necessity for the presence of the troops is but temporary, and will soon be past. So long as they are here, we have no other places so suitable for their accommodation as the public grounds which they now occupy." The Board adjourned to the 14th inst.

At a recent election held at Fort Gibson, Hon. JOHN ROSS was reelected principal Chief of the Cherokee Nation for the term of four years, and LEWIS DOWNING, Lieutenant-Colonel of the Third Cherokees Indian regiment United States, was elected Second Chief for the same period.

The Railway panic on the Stock Exchange appeared to exhaust itself on Saturday, and there was good buying at the close at a recovery of 5@4 ⅌ cent. Gold fell back 1 ⅌ cent, on the small shipments of the day. Money 6@7 ⅌ cent.

Breadstuffs were less active on Saturday. Flour and Wheat were cheaper. Corn was somewhat firmer. Provisions were in fair demand, as were likewise Hay, Hops, Tallow, Tobacco, Wool, Mackerel, Herring, Sugars, and Coffee. Cotton was in moderate request. Freights were quiet, with 224 vessels of all classes in port. Other branches of trade were essentially unalloyed.

The President's letter to the Springfield Convention receives the unqualified admiration of loyal men throughout the breadth of the land. Various as have been their sentiments on some of its topics, it is yet their universal testimony that nothing could have been more true or more apt. Its hard sense, its sharp outlines, its noble temper, defy malice. Even the Copperhead gnaws upon it as vainly as did the viper upon the file.

Men talk about a courtly felicity of speech, and term it a rare accomplishment. So indeed it is. Nothing but high culture and the most patient practice confers it. Here is a felicity of speech far surpassing it, yet decidedly uncourtly. The most consummate rhetorician never used language more pat to the purpose; and still there is not a word in the letter not familiar to the plainest plowman. But what is still better than even felicity of expression, is felicity of thought. Not only the President's language is the apiest expression of his ideas, but there is a similar fitness of his ideas to the occasion. He has a singular faculty of discovering the real relations of things, and shaping his thoughts strictly upon them, without external bias. In his own independent, and perhaps we might say very peculiar, way, he invariably gets at the needed truth of the time. When he writes, it is always said that "he hits the nail upon the head," and so he does; but the beauty of it is that the nail which he hits is sure to be the very nail of all others which needs driving.

Nothing could have been better adapted to the exigencies of the time, in argument, in expostulation, in warning, and in general tone than President LINCOLN's Inaugural; and yet it would be hard to conceive a more difficult or more delicate position than he then occupied. But this peculiar appositeness is just as manifest in his less formal productions. Everybody was struck by the remarkable appreciation and force with which he urged Gen. MCCLELLAN to more active military movements in the interval between the battle of Antietam and that General's final removal. Yet these letters were not meant for the public eye at all, and never would have seen the light but for the Report of the Congressional Committee on the Conduct of the War. So too his letter to Mr. GURLEY, odd as it seemed at first blush, was, as everybody now admits, perfectly adapted to that stage of the war. His letter to the interceptors for Mr. VALLANDIGHAM utterly annihilated the case they thought they had made so strong; and yet it was done in so genial a way that the victims themselves felt like joining in the general applause. There was the same unpretentious and yet irresistible power in silencing Gov. SEYMOUR's factious remonstrances against the execution of the Enrollment law. This letter to the Springfield Convention, though in a very different vein, has just the same fitness to the occasion, and the same effectiveness in its own direction. Whatever the effort, it is never mistimed, never misapent.

Lord BROUGHAM remarked of WASHINGTON that "the human fancy could not have created a combination of qualities more perfectly fitted for the scenes in which it was his lot to bear a part." This same consummate fitness for the times may be recognized in the man at the head of the affairs of the country in this second great crisis of its existence. Rather we should say is recognized; for it is certain that, in spite of all the hard trials and the [illegible] ABRAHAM LINCOLN is still the most popular man in the Republic. All the denunciations and all the efforts of demagogues are perfectly powerless to wean the people from their faith in him. There is a general conviction that he is just the man for the occasion. And it is a conviction that is constantly growing clearer and deeper. The more experience the country has of President LINCOLN, the more it obtains its confidence.

It would be hard to think of two men more unlike in some of their characteristics than the first President and our present one. Yet, in general cast of mind and bent, the latter probably more nearly resembles WASHINGTON than any of his predecessors. Without anything like brilliancy of genius, without any very great breadth of information, or literary accomplishment, or inventive power, he still has that perfect balance of thoroughly sound faculties which gives an almost infallibly sure judgment. This, combined with great calmness of temper, great firmness of purpose, supreme moral principle, and intense patriotism, makes up just that character which fits him, as the same qualities fitted WASHINGTON, for a wise and safe administration of affairs in the season of great peril.

It is almost fearful to contemplate what might have been the consequences had we an Executive of different mould. We have had Presidents of a headstrong temper, who, when hard pressed, would listen to no counsel, but rush on self-willed; others of a feebleness of spirit that made them the mere playthings of circumstances, or the passive tools of other men's arts. We have had Presidents who would have found it almost impossible, in any exigency, to rise above a party level; others who, though they might detach themselves from party, would do so only to seek the swift popular current that should bear them on to a second term. Had we a man now at the head of affairs belonging to any of these classes, the national ruin would be almost inevitable. There could have been hardly a hope of escaping wreck, in this dreadful storm, under such pilotage. The very knowledge that we had so unreliable a hand at the helm would have almost paralyzed effort. There would have been no such collected energy as we have seen, no such steady confidence in the great popular heart. All would have been uncertainty, dissension and confusion. We have had many reasons to be thankful to heaven for its orderings in aid of our rightly acquitting ourselves toward this wicked rebellion; but for no one thing have we more great cause for gratitude as for the possession of a ruler who is so peculiarly adapted to the needs of the time as clear-headed, dispassionate, discreet, steadfast, honest ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

The Exemption Mania and its Tendencies.

Everyone seems to be agreed that men who have families dependent on them for support, and have been drafted, ought either to be relieved from the necessity of serving, or have their families provided for out of the public funds. The "Conservative" party of this City, represented by the Aldermen and Common Council, go a long step further, and hold that no man ought to be obliged to serve, or to purchase his own exemption, if he is "unwilling" to do so; and they propose to pay out of the pockets of the taxpayers whatever sum may be necessary to secure everybody's exemption, rich or poor, married or single, fatherless, motherless, or blessed with both parents. The former of these doctrines is being put into practice by the Board of Supervisors, while the Aldermen and Common Councilmen have made desperate efforts to carry out the latter. Whichever party succeeds in keeping the field to itself, it is quite certain that nobody will be sent to the army from New-York who can give any good reason either for not serving, or for not purchasing his own exemption; and it is also quite certain that if the Common Council can get into the field "for the relief of the drafted," what with sham "indigents" and runaway substitutes, some three millions of dollars will pass into the pockets of the scum of the City population, and few or no men into the ranks of the army.

But, whichever way the matter may end, there are some questions which must suggest themselves to everybody, and which are suggesting themselves to the public everywhere else than in New-York. We cannot help asking why is the draft in New-York so much more of a hardship than it is anywhere else, that a public tax has to be levied to exempt the City from its operation? Why should everybody, be he rich or poor, bachelor or father of a family, have his exemption fee paid for him by the public on Manhattan Island, and not in any county of Connecticut or Massachusetts? Why is it harder for an "indigent" citizen of New-York to bear arms and serve in the army than for an "indigent" gentleman of any other locality? Why have poor people, who have neither friends nor $300, to march to the battle-field from every other portion of the Union and not from this City? Why is New-York, which is perhaps more interested in the successful prosecution of the war than any other spot in the North, to form an exception to the operation of a general law, intended by Congress to bear equally on all loyal States? Why are meetings held to excite a public sentiment that shall force the authorities, the banks and moneyed institutions generally to extend a helping hand to the people who are summoned to the stern realities of the war" here any more than anywhere else? Why should "banks and moneyed institutions" in the City be "forced to lend a helping hand" for any such purpose, any more than banks and rich farmers and shopkeepers in the country?

There are but two answers to these questions. There are but two things which create a distinction in this matter between New-York and the country districts. The one is that we have a mob which has shown its teeth, and has its partisans in high places; and the other is that amongst us a more compact body of rich men and property-holders, to be levied on thus, there are elsewhere. There is not a single reason to be urged why a poor drafted man in Orange or Dutchess County should have to pay his $300 or shoulder the musket, while his neighbor in the City stays comfortably at home, except these two, and they are both as discreditable as can well be imagined. Neither in New-York nor in any other part of the country is there now, or has there ever been, any danger that the family of any drafted man would suffer from his absence in the ranks of the army. Humanity, as well as justice, have required that this should not happen, and it has not happened. What the agitators against the draft desire is something more than this; they seek to turn to account the fact that there is in this City a mass of wealth, which the owners are used to having filched from them by the City Government under one pretext or another. And the pernicious consequences that would result from their success is seen in the feeble attempts of other large towns, in which the same social conditions exist, to follow the example of New-York. Wherever there are rich men to plunder, and an unscrupulous Corporation to plunder them, the cry is raised that no man must go to the war "unless he is willing," and that property-holders must pay the expense of keeping him at home.

No amount of rant about the constitutionality of the law, or about "the hardships of the draft," will serve to disguise the fact that the proposed mode of enabling the great cities to exempt themselves from the operation, is simply the first step toward the creation among us of a degraded plebs, supplying its wants out of the public treasury, or else held in subjection by terror, persuaded that its poverty is the fault of the rich, and perpetually ripe for robbery, either by means of "ordinances" or bludgeons. It has been our boast and glory hitherto that we have had no such class. If a certain school of politicians are to have their way, we shall soon have the most perfect specimens of it the world has ever seen, uniting European greed and bloodthirstiness and degradation with American audacity.

The Tennessee Campaigns of Generals Rosecrans and Buell.

The remarkable resemblance between the present position of the Union army in Tennessee, under Gen. ROSECRANS, and the position of the same force under Gen. BUELL last year, is worth looking into, with a view to note both how far the resemblance goes and where it breaks off. In the early days of September of last year Gen. BUELL's advance was within shelling distance of Chattanooga, just as Gen. ROSECRANS' advance now is: and yet precisely this day a year ago, the Union army was in full retreat on its secondary base at Nashville, thrown back by a flank movement on its line of communications executed by Gen. BRAGG, and from Nashville it was, by a further movement of BRAGG by the right, thrown back on its primary base—Louisville and the Ohio River. Is there any reason to anticipate a similar result for Gen. ROSECRANS' army? We think there is not; and we will briefly indicate the reasons why we think there is not.

To begin with, it should be remarked that the line of operations of Gen. ROSECRANS is quite different from the line of operations of Gen. BUELL. Gen. BUELL's starting-point was Corinth, moving due east through Northern Alabama, along the Memphis and Chattanooga Railroad, a distance of over two hundred miles. The march was executed with great difficulty, repairing and guarding the Memphis and Chattanooga Railroad as they went, and also opening the railroads from Nashville to Decatur and Nashville to Stevenson—lines which it was found exceedingly difficult to hold, and from the latter of which—namely, their communications with Nashville—they were at length completely severed. The advance was still pushed forward, however. Stevenson was occupied, the line from Huntsville to Battle Creek, and north and east as far as McMinnville, occupied and observed, pontoons were prepared for crossing the Tennessee and moving on Chattanooga, and the van even pushed forward to within two or three miles of that place.

At this moment it became known that the rebels were preparing for an offensive movement. The rebel army, after its retreat from Corinth, had been brought round to Chattanooga, and BRAGG superseded BEAUREGARD in command of the forces. It was certainly admirably posted for an offensive movement, with a base of operations oblique to BUELL's line of communications, and a powerful force opposed to an inferior one. BRAGG, toward the end of August, crossed the Tennessee at three places, at Kingston, at Harrison and at Chattanooga, and advanced to seize BUELL's communications. In this pass the Union commander had only one alternative—either, if strong enough, to advance to Chattanooga with his whole force, sacrificing his own line, or to fall back on this line somewhere in the vicinity of Murfreesboro or McMinnville, to oppose the enemy's advance. Gen. BUELL felt himself, and in fact was, too weak to advance, so he chose the latter course and concentrated at McMinnville. BRAGG, however, declined fighting, and by moving still more to the right, he turned once more the position of Gen. BUELL, and forced him to retreat to Nashville, where he arrived on the 11th of September. Scarcely, however, had the Union commander commenced his retreat, when BRAGG again pushed forward with his right, threatening BUELL's primary base of operations at Louisville, and compelled him to fall back on that point, if he would not be cut wholly off from supplies. Here BUELL was largely reinforced, and immediately assumed the offensive, compelling a counter retreat on the part of BRAGG, which he effected by way of Cumberland Gap. Thence the rebel army retired to Chattanooga, and from there round to Murfreesboro, where Gen. ROSECRANS, who had in the meanwhile relieved Gen. BURNSIDE and advanced to Nashville, whipped BRAGG and compelled him to fall back to the line of the Duck.

Since this time the progress and line of Gen. ROSECRANS' beautiful advance are well known. By a movement on BRAGG's right flank he compelled him to retire from his strongly fortified position at Shelbyville to Tullahoma, and by a fresh advance on his communications he forced BRAGG to fall back to Chattanooga. From Tullahoma Gen. ROSECRANS, three weeks ago, began the new offensive movement, which, said so many difficulties has thus far been conducted so admirably and so successfully.

The difference in the line of operations taken by Gen. ROSECRANS and that of Gen. BUELL last year, will be apparent from a moment's glance at the map. It will be observed that instead of exposing his flank and communications by an oblique line, he perfectly covers both. In addition to this strategic advantage, Gen. ROSECRANS commands the whole front of operations by which BRAGG last year advanced in his invasive movement. The cooperative force of Gen. BURNSIDE has already captured Kingston, the point at which BRAGG's extreme right crossed the Tennessee River, and we also learn this morning that BURNSIDE has even advanced upon and taken possession of KNOXVILLE. Similar, therefore, though the present situation of the army in Tennessee be to that of the army last year just before BRAGG compelled its retreat, there is not the slightest chance of the rebel General being able to repeat the operation. To the cursory observation there is much that is similar in the two situations; but the strategic relations of the armies are wholly unlike, and the unlikeness is all to the advantage of the Union side. And, besides the strategic considerations that render any advance on the part of BRAGG improbable, it is rendered still more improbable, and indeed impossible, by the great discrepancy of his force now and last year. Last year at this time he had fully sixty thousand men under his command. This year he has not more than half of that number. While, therefore, but little is known of Gen. ROSECRANS' present movements, there is no reason why one should look back with fearful anticipations to the precedent of last year.

AMUSEMENTS.

All the principal Broadway establishments will be open to-night, with the exception of LAURA KEENE's Theatre, which is still in the hands of the decorators. Those who require an entertainment of the best class will find it at NIBLO's, where Mr. FORREST and Mr. HARKNESS appear in "Hamlet" and "Narcisse," supported by a good general Company. At the other establishments the Spectral Drama is still the rage; the Ghost, in fact, is everywhere, and everywhere prosperous. The influence of the spirits is proved by the fact, that whilst Mrs. BOWERS (who is, by all odds, the best actress we have had in this City for many years) was sustaining a heavy weekly loss in endeavoring to keep up a respectable kind of entertainment, she has passed to immediate profit by lending herself to the prevailing rage. Who can wonder that she has thrust a lot of ghosts into a piece where there is no justification for their presence. We refer to "Lady Audley's Secret," which is now the rage at the Winter Garden, and which, notwithstanding the ghosts, derives much of its interest from the fine impersonation of the heroine by Mrs. BOWERS. At Mr. WALLACK's establishment the play called "True to the Last" is still drawing enormous houses, and will continue to do so until it is bruised away by the authoritative hand of Mr. WALLACK. Mr. BARNUM, it is stated, has imported the real ghost, and will introduce it in a few days. In the meantime the Museum furnishes theatrical performances twice a day. The New-York Theatre (formerly WALLACK's, corner of Broome-street and Broadway,) will open to-night for a regular season. It has been newly decorated and improved. The entertainments are of the Ravel kind, and will be interpreted by the Martinetti and Marzetti troupe of pantomimists.

The coming season promises to be a memorable one so far as music is concerned. We shall have at least two opera companies; Italian, under Mr. MAZZOLENI, and German, under Mr. ANSCHUTZ. It is probable, too, that Mr. GRAU, who is in Europe engaging artists, will make an occasional raid into the Metropolis. It is of course absolutely essential to his success in the provinces that he should introduce his artists here. Where he will succeed in doing this is at course a mystery. All the theatres are engaged, and the Academy of Music, we presume, out of the question—Messrs. MAZZOLENI and ANSCHUTZ occupying it in succession until far into the Spring. Nevertheless, it may be safely predicted that if Mr. GRAU wishes to play here, he will find the means for doing so. There's a sweet little church sits smiling aloft that keeps watch o'er the luck of poor GRAU.

The advantages of having thoroughly informed musicians at the head of operatic matters, will be strikingly demonstrated in the excellence, not only of the leading artists, but also of those generally slighted auxiliaries the orchestra and chorus. Both Mr. MAZZOLENI and Mr. ANSCHUTZ are already at work with their choruses. We had the pleasure on Friday of attending a choral rehearsal of the music of "Burgundie," under Mr. ANSCHUTZ's direction, and were completely astonished and charmed with the precision and power that have already been attained in that difficult music. The chorus, to be sure, is a picked one—the voices being uniformly good and thoroughly experienced. Mr. MAZZOLENI's Italian chorus will be somewhat stronger than usual, and will embrace a number of new voices, trained by the impresario for the purpose of invigorating the old ones. Mr. MAZZOLENI's season commences on the 5th of October, and will open with MEYERBEER's grand opera of "Robert le Diable." The cast will include the names of MARCOU, SULZER, MARIMONTI, BELLETTI, BRAGA, &c. New scenery and costumes have been prepared for the work, which, there is no doubt, will be received with cheers. Mr. MAZZOLENI's orchestra will, we hope, be brought up to the best standard, numerically, of last season, although, without raising the prices of admission, it is difficult to see how the greatly increased demands of orchestral players and chorus singers can be met. But on this subject Mr. MAZZOLENI is inflexible. He believes in dead losses, and is always satisfied with a season if he finds himself tolerably "hard up" at the end of it. We are glad to be able to state that the private boxes of the Academy will not be let to subscribers for more than twelve nights at a time. The rule was somewhat infringed last season, and a good deal of dissatisfaction occasioned thereby. The number of boxes is so limited that the manager is bound to exercise the greatest caution in avoiding anything that may savor of favoritism or preference. They were in such demand last season that extravagant premiums were often paid for them. And here we may mention that many ingenious alterations and desirable improvements have been effected in the Academy of Music, both before and behind the curtain. The private boxes and the entire sweep of the first tier have been especially benefitted. There were, it will be remembered, several extremely annoying entrances and passages running between and intersecting the first and second rows of boxes. On crowded evenings these were a source of great vexation to the occupants of the boxes, inasmuch as they were invariably thrown into the doorways of the passages. These have been removed and the space thus gained has been occupied by comfortable lounging boxes. The heavy pillars that support the ceiling have been removed and replaced by columns, slightly in front, proportions that they are no longer an obstruction to the sight. Hence there is a clear view of the stage from every part of the first circle, and by these alterations a gain of fifty or sixty sub-chairs in also secured. The alterations on the stage are of a precisely kind, and affect mainly the working of the machinery and scenery. Mme. MARIO will arrive by the next Cunard steamer at Boston. Mr. ANSCHUTZ's artists are to leave Hamburg by the steamer of the 5th September. His season will commence some time in November, and will open with BEETHOVEN's opera of "Faust and Margarita," which we hear will also be given in Italian by Mr. MAZZOLENI. The chorus of this work are already in rehearsal. Additional novelties in Mr. ANSCHUTZ's repertoire are "Euryanthe," by WEBER; the "Templer and the Jewess," by MARSCHNER; "Hans Heiling," by MARSCHNER; "Indra," by FLOTOW; the "Wassertrager," by CHERUBINI; "Semiramis," by REISSIGER; "Gustava," by AUBER; "Die Waffenschmiede (the Armorer,)" by LORTZING; "La Dame Blanche," by BOIELDIEU; the "Adieu Suisse" (Rogin's Neer,) by GRIMM, and "Oyuna and Rupar," by OTTENSEER. This is certainly a tremendous programme, and if the singers are only of the right class—as we have every reason to believe they will be—we may look forward to a brilliant season of German opera. Mr. ANSCHUTZ has engaged one of the best scenic artists of Germany to paint the necessary scenery for these works.

In the way of miscellaneous music, we hear that Messrs. MASON and THOMAS will resume their delightful series of chamber concerts early in November; and that Mr. GOTTSCHALK (who has been endeavoring to MAX STRAKOSCH for one hundred nights, and for $10,000) will give several concerts at Irving Hall, and play several new compositions, during the next month. The Philharmonic Society has resolved to abandoning Irving Hall, and will return this Winter to the Academy of Music. Every one, except the professional monitors, will regret this change. The orchestra of the Society was heard to the greatest advantage in the Hall, where, also, solo artists had a chance. Pecuniary reasons are in favor of the Academy, and hence a change that every lover of music will regret.

The Park Theatre, Brooklyn.

Appreciating the great growth of the population of Brooklyn, and the evident demand for a nightly dramatic entertainment, an enterprising citizen of that unique place of habitation has erected quietly and unostentatiously, in one of its most frequented thoroughfares, a beautiful theatre. It faces on Fulton-street, immediately opposite the City Hall, in the immediate vicinity of the new Court-house, and at the intersection of the various lines of City railways. Its location is wisely chosen. The material of which it is built is known as Nova Scotia stone, running up into a front of sixty feet in height by sixty feet in width, the main entrance being directly in the centre, with a stairway ten feet in width leading to the second story. The basement is divided into three rooms, one of which is sixty by eighty feet in size, and the others are twenty by fifty feet. The ground floor presents on Fulton-street two stores, twenty by sixty feet each, with large windows of French plate glass. In the rear, fronting on Adams-street, is a large hall for public use, whose dimensions are sixty by eighty feet, with a ceiling fifteen feet high.

The theatre proper is on the second floor, the entrance to which is large and artistically beautiful. The ticket office, manager's room, retiring apartments and hat boxes, are well arranged. There are two entrances to the parquet, the lower of which will be closed on the rising of the curtain.

The auditorium is light, airy and comfortable. There is a parquet and family circle, in which the seats are so arranged that every auditor may have an uninterrupted view of the stage. There are no columns, no chandeliers or brackets, to interfere with the vision. The family circle is sustained by six iron rods, fastened into the frame of the roof, and passing down and into the timbers of the circle. Strength is thus obtained without any sacrifice of space, rendering the general appearance of the auditorium light and graceful. The upholstery is in maroon color, and the main area divided by ornate cushioned brackets. The walls are panneled in purpled gray, and molded with vine work. The dome is frescoed in eight panels, alternately representing Tragedy, Comedy, Painting and Music. There is no superfluous ornamentation to confuse the eye, nothing to confound the beholder by a mass of scroll, leaf and grotesque work.

The proscenium boxes are not projected upon the stage itself, the front being curved inward, advancing at the ends only to the feet of the box.

The stage is pronounced by critics and other professionals to be perfect in its appointments, having some fifty sets of entirely new scenery, painted by TISSELL, under the immediate direction of Mr. HARKNESS, who is at once artist, actor, manager and critic.

The orchestral space has a capacity for twenty performers. Dressing-rooms, property-rooms, and wardrobe closets, are conveniently arranged, and the green-room is particularly designed for comfort.

Mr. HARKNESS advertises in our columns that he will open the Theatre on the 14th inst. The enterprise is one which commends itself to the people of Brooklyn.

The architect of the Theatre is Mr. GERARDUS KING; Manager, GARDNER HARRISON; Stage Manager, R. L. BAKER; Treasurer, H. J. ROBBS; Musical Director, Mr. DOWNING.

NEWS FROM WASHINGTON.

OUR SPECIAL WASHINGTON DISPATCHES.

WASHINGTON, Sunday, Sept. 6.

TRUE STATEMENTS.

The statement made by the TIMES that Quartermaster Gen. MEIGS had been removed, by being sent into exile on inspection duty, is true. The statement made by us that the Chief of the Ordnance Bureau had also been removed is likewise true. The outbreaks excited against us for publishing this welcome news, were intended only to cushion balls from high places. Another great bureau of the War Department will soon have young blood injected into its administration.

A TEXAS EXPEDITION.

Rumor assigns Gen. HEINTZELMAN to a large command in Texas, which shall stifle the contraband trade up the Rio Grande, &c., &c., &c.

A rebel deserter, arrived this morning, states that three brigades of LEE's infantry left Fredericksburgh last Thursday, to reinforce BRAGG at Chattanooga.

DISPATCHES TO THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

WASHINGTON, Sunday, Sept. 6.

AN EXECUTIVE ORDER MODIFIED.

The President has ordered that the Executive Order dated Nov. 21, 1862, prohibiting the exportation from the United States of arms, ammunition, and munitions of war, under which the Commandants of Departments were, by order of the Secretary of War, dated May 12, 1863, directed to prohibit the purchase and sale for exportation from the United States of all horses and mules within their respective commands, and to take and appropriate to the use of the United States any horses, mules and live stock designed for exportation, be so far modified that any arms heretofore imported into the United States may be re-exported to the place of original shipment, and that any live stock raised in any State or Territory bounded by the Pacific Ocean, may be exported from any port of such State or Territory.

PUNISHMENT OF DESERTERS.

Instructions have been issued requiring that men charged with desertion, who belong to regiments whose terms have expired, if not able to clear themselves of the charge, shall be compelled to serve out the remainder of their term.

COL. BAKER.

The Chronicle denies that Col. L. C. BAKER has been ordered in the field, and the office of Provost-Marshal of the War Department abolished, and says no such order is contemplated.

AN ERROR CORRECTED.

An error of the press represents the Postmaster-General, instead of Second Assistant Postmaster-General McLEAN, as being ill at his residence in Washington. The former's health was improved by his late visit to the North.

Officers on Provost-Marshal-General's Staff.

The following circular has been issued by Col. FOX:

JAMES B. FRY, Provost-Marshal-General.

AFFAIRS IN JAPAN.

Prospects of a War with the Treaty Powers.

From the San Francisco Bulletin, Aug. 12.

By the schooner J. S. Ford, which arrived Aug. 8 from Kanagawa, (Yokohama,) we have correspondence and printed papers from that place to 24th June.

It appears that war between the Japanese and all foreign Governments was imminent. On the day of the sailing of the Ford, the Governor of Kanagawa had sent in a notice to the foreign residents of that port to leave the country within the next thirty days. This notice was said to have been received by him from the Gorogio or Japanese Senate, which had passed it on the recommendation of the Mikado or Spiritual Emperor, whose intention it is stated is to close all intercourse with foreign nations. In answer to the demands of the British Admiral for indemnity and satisfaction for the murder of Mr. Richardson, the Japanese Government had paid to the indemnity demanded, $440,000, but Yokohama correspondent says $110,000,) but substantially refused to give up the murderers. They allege in their answer that the murderers are vassals of Prince Satsuma, who will not give them up, and the Government is unable to take them by force. In answer to the Admiral's demand for a fleet to go to Satsuma's principality and take him to Simoda, if they are unwilling that he should do so, it would be essentially war with Japan itself. The British Admiral had announced that on the 20th of June he would land an armed force from the fleet and take possession of Yokohama, which he will hold if able. He, however, has advised the foreign residents not to rely on his ability, and risk their lives and property in consequence. By foreign advices the hopes are entertained of a peaceful solution of affairs, on the part of the Government, have by their officers given a vehement declaration of war with all foreigners.

TOKOHAMA, (Kanagawa,) June 24, 1863.

The British fleet of thirteen vessels-of-war, with three French and the Wyoming, carrying in all upward of 100 guns, will remain until all questions are settled. Indeed, they must remain, for no man can tell what a day or an hour of difficulty may bring forth, and the many of the community now daily speak of the Japanese manner in have for any firelighters.

If matters look still better than now, the Wyoming, with the American Minister on board, will go on Monday next, for a month's trip to Nagasaki, to look for an interpreter in that place, and to ascertain what is the true position of them of our people still left there.

Yesterday, the good captain, Bowen, announced to us and society to be a great man, with a brain clear and cool—passed through Kanagawa, with a respectable array of retainers. There he was met by the Governor and other high Japanese officials who unbelieved to him the true condition of foreign affairs, and so effectually that this morning, as early as four o'clock, the sum of $600,000, in Mexican dollars, (£120,000,) was agreed upon between the officials in the negotiations between England and Japan.

I learn that the French Admiral Jaurès has declared that he will hold Yokohama to the last extremity. It is also said the Wyoming will participate so far as to defend the rights, life and property of Americans, and, if the war is commenced, an expeditious of all Japanese, cooperate with the other Powers to the utmost extent.

Half-past Eleven A. M.—Since writing the above, I am advised that the foreign Ministers have each received a communication from the Gorogio, advising them that the open ports are now closed, and that all foreigners must leave the country in thirty days; and this is reported as the fiat of the powers that be, and to be enforced at all hazards. The $600,000 was paid because they had agreed to pay it.

We shall now see whether this is "brag," or not. Verily, this "plot thickens," and we are in the midst of dangers seen and unseen, and rumors like balloons in a wrathful storm fly about us.

I am now of the opinion that war is inevitable between all the Treaty Powers of this country—certainly so if the Government insists on exclusion. Negotiations may cause to soften matters, but it looks blue at present.

It is reported that MITO has committed harikiri. No doubt HIKONEN BAKKI will have to do the same. If he fails he may drive us on shipboard, but he cannot drive us out of the bay.

Imports are being restripped to Shanghai in large quantities. Vessels in demand. Several are expected daily. Great excitement prevails. Everywhere consolation stares us in the face. Yet we decline to leave.

The American ship Viking, bound from Hong Kong to San Francisco, with passengers, to KOOPMANSHAP & Co., was wrecked some 100 miles south of this port. All hands were saved. Four hundred and fifty Chinamen are at Simoda. The American Consul and the Wyoming immediately repaired to the wreck, and conducted the 450 Chinamen, and proceeded to Simoda, where they were landed without delay or accident. The steamer, remarked by the Simoda Gazette, the Viking is owned in New-York, and has lately been repaired at an expense of some $35,000. She has no cargo.

The French Admiral will make the attempt to keep possession of Yokohama. The Wyoming will aid. What the English intend doing is uncertain as regards this place. They will probably have a force here. In that case the merchants will remain.

The Wyoming is still here, and will become the residence of the American Minister and Consul. Should Yokohama be threatened, Capt. MACGREGOR will look after his countrymen, though, in fact, he has no spare room on board his beautiful craft. It is a thousand pities that one of our large ships is not with us. A few shots may bring about a settlement. In that case we might repairing aid-board for a brief period; whereas, for the want of some mediation, most of us will have to proceed to Shanghai at a sickly season of the year. We learn that the Minister and Consul have received, in case of war, to go to Amoy. But one opinion prevails, which is, that nothing short of war and a new treaty will bring about a better state of intercourse with Japan.

There remains yet to be settled for the equivalent for SAVORNA'S father, implicated in the murder of RICHARDSON. The Gotes Yamo fine has yet to be assessed for. A war must be the result; it may be put off for a time, but it will come. The fleet will remain. The expulsion of foreigners has yet to be reconsidered. Thank God! if war for the present is not determined, business will resume its wonted course.

The Gorogio has just notified the Minister of the Treaty Powers, that the open ports in Japan will be closed in thirty days, when all foreigners must leave. I have no time for comment, as the J. S. Ford is closing the mails.

Trial of Doctor Wright for the Murder of Lieut. Sanborn.

FORTRESS MONROE, Sunday, Sept. 5.

Dr. WRIGHT was recently tried before a military Commission for shooting Lieut. SANBORN while the latter was drilling negro troops in Norfolk, and the result of the investigation was forwarded to the President for his decision. We learn to-day that President LINCOLN has ordered a final trial; but whether before a military or civil tribunal, has not yet been determined.

From Memphis.

MEMPHIS, Thursday, Sept. 3.

Brig.-Gen. CARR reported here for duty last night, and has been assigned to the command of the left wing of Gen. HURLBUT's army, with headquarters at Corinth.

Everything is quiet along our lines.

Considerable cotton has arrived here during the past three weeks.

The Lawrence Tragedy.

ST. LOUIS, Sunday, Sept. 6.

Five gentlemen, composing the Relief Committee of Lawrence, make the statement that the dispatch recently sent from Kansas City to the Associated Press, asserting that a large amount of goods and money and a number of horses taken by QUANTRELL, had been recovered and returned, is unfounded. Of the value of the merchandise recovered will not exceed one hundred dollars.

The Second Vermont Regiment at Poughkeepsie.

POUGHKEEPSIE, Sunday, Sept. 6.

The Second Vermont regiment, 900 strong, arrived here yesterday evening. They quartered about distance from the city. To-night two companies are on guard at the City Hall.

Renomination of Gov. Thomas in Maryland.

BALTIMORE, Sunday, Sept. 6.

Ex-Gov. THOMAS has been renominated to Congress, in the Fourth District, Maryland, by a Convention which adopted strong unconditional Union resolutions.

The New Steamship Germania.

The steamship Germania, which arrived at this port last evening, is a new ship, built by Messrs. Caird & Co., Greenock, 3,200 tons measurement and 2,123 tons register, with all the modern improvements in machinery. On the voyage from Hamburg to Southampton, the Germania averaged, against strong head winds, a rate of twelve knots per hour. Her saloon is most elegantly fitted up in every respect, the panels being adorned with paintings of scenes in Germany, England and the United States. There is a first-rate piano and a good library on board for the use of the saloon passengers, and everything is provided that can conduce to their comfort. The steerage accommodations are excellent. The space between the decks is 8½ feet high, and is thoroughly ventilated. The Germania is commanded by Capt. H. Eggers, late of the Saxonia, who is well known and universally respected by all classes of passengers. This is the seventh steamship built by Messrs. CAIRD & Co., of Greenock, for the Hamburg American line. The company's fleet now consists of six large steamships, viz.: the Germania, Saxonia, Teutonia, Baseria, Borussia, and Hansonia. The last five are of 2,200 tons measurement. By them fortnightly communication is maintained between Hamburg, Southampton and New-York.

TWO DROWNING ACCIDENTS.—A lad aged 4 years, named SAMUEL GARDNER, son of the Depot-master of the Hudson River Railroad, at the foot of Fifty-second-street, was accidentally drowned yesterday afternoon, in the North River. The body was recovered and the Coroner notified. Mr. JAMES C. McCOMB was drowned about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, while bathing at the foot of Thirty-first-street, East River. The deceased was about 26 years of age, and resided at No. 194 East Thirty-first-street. His body was recovered and conveyed to his residence, where the Coroner will hold an inquest this morning.

Arrivals in the City.

Gens. C. Grover and O. O. Auger, from Fort Hudson; Gen. Dwight, from Saratoga; Baron Von Gerolt, Prussian Minister at Washington; Brutus Clay, of the British Legation; E. De Lacarter, of the French Legation; Hon. Fred. Frelinghuysen; Com. Daniel Ammen, U. S. Navy; J. T. Kavanagh, Purser of the steamship City of Lowell; G. W. Riggs and family, Washington, are at the Brevoort House.

Deafness and Noises in the Head Arising from Catarrh.

LETTER NO. IV. ON CATARRH, ITS CAUSES, SYMPTOMS, AND EFFECTS,

BY DR. LIGHTHILL,

No. 24 St. Mark's-place,

Author of a "Popular Treatise on Deafness, its Causes and Prevention," &c., &c.

(Entered according to act of Congress in the year 1863, by E. Burnham Lightill, M.D., in the Clerk's office of the District Court of the United States, for the Southern District of New-York.)

The loss of hearing is a misfortune very much to be deplored, for we depend upon the aid of that sense for the development of speech in childhood and our instruction and social intercourse in after life. Speech is acquired by the imitation of sounds; if, therefore, a child is deprived of his hearing, it cannot spontaneously or imitatively form articulate sounds, though not the least defect exists in the organ of voice, because it is impossible to imitate a thing of which we have no idea, or, in other words, which the brain is prevented from conceiving; hence such children will be dumb.

Even after speech has been completely developed, it is sometimes lost or forgotten, should total deafness supervene in early childhood. Children have been brought to us for examination, who having become totally deaf at the age of ten and even twelve years, forgot by degrees the words by which they were wont to convey their ideas, until at length every recollection of language being obliterated from memory, they were as dumb as those who had been born deaf. Neither hearing themselves or others speak, their memory was unable to retain the knowledge of articulation.

Such cases, though sad in the extreme, need not be wondered at when we consider that individuals of ripe years articulate badly, and are unable to properly pitch their voices: should their hearing become very defective, they speak sometimes in a loud bellowing tone, and at other times not above a breath.

Impairment of hearing to any considerable degree interferes seriously with usefulness in almost every sphere of life, consigns the sufferer to solitude in the midst of society, and deprives him of advantages and pleasures which are among the chief enjoyments of our existence.

All authorities on the Ear concur in recognizing catarrh, or inflammation of the nasal passages and throat, as one of the principal causes of its diseases, and that deafness in the majority of cases is attributable to its influence. Our own experience fully sustains the statistical reports of others, for, in three out of every four cases of deafness presenting themselves, the exciting cause is catarrh and the inflammation of the throat, which is invariably associated with it. It was, in fact, in connection with the treatment of deafness that we first observed the wide-spread and deleterious influences of catarrh. This led us to investigate the subject more particularly, and to devote to it that patient study and close attention which its importance deserved, and the result of which is embodied in these letters.

ANATOMY OF THE EAR.

The ear is anatomically divided into three parts—the external ear, middle ear or tympanum, and the internal ear or labyrinth. The external ear is composed of the auricle, which collects the undulations of the atmosphere, and the external canal, through which these are conducted to the drum-head or membrane-tympani, (a thin and very delicate membrane, stretched over the inner termination of the auditory canal, hermetically closing it,) which vibrates under the influence of the impinging atmospheric waves. The middle ear or tympanum is a small irregular cavity, about the size of a small bean, internal of the drum-head, which divides it from the external ear. The inner ear consists of minute, delicate canals and spiral windings, carved in the bone adjoining the tympanum, which contain filaments of the auditory nerve spread on a delicate membrane. This membrane has the exact shape of its bony case, but is somewhat smaller, leaving an intervening space, which is filled by a peculiar liquid, called perilymph, so that the membranaceous labyrinth floats in the bony one. Across the middle ear stretches a movable chain of the most delicate little bones, one end of which is grown to the drum-head, and the other end is attached to a similar but much smaller membrane of that part of the labyrinth called vestibule; consequently the vibration of the membrane-tympani produces a like vibration of the membrane of the labyrinth, and this a corresponding agitation of its fluid. This agitation produces a certain impression on the nerve-fibres, which is conveyed to the brain by the agency of the auditory nerve and conceived by the mind as sound. On the floor of the drum, immediately facing the drum-head, is a small opening which is the orifice of the eustachian tube. This canal, one end of which opens into the upper part of the throat immediately behind the palatine nares. Through this tube the middle ear receives the supply of air necessary for the vitality of its membranes and the communication of sound.

SYMPTOMS OF CATARRHAL INFLAMMATION OF THE TYMPANUM.

The close proximity of the orifice of the eustachian tube to the nasal passages, together with the continuity of its lining membrane with that of the nose, favors the extension of the inflammation from that organ to the middle ear. Sometimes, but especially in the earlier stages, the tube itself is principally affected; but in the course of time the disease is certain to extend itself to the tympanum; in some cases destroying in the inevitable result. If the difficulty is in the tube, the deafness arises from occasional obstructions of that passage by mucus or inflammation, or by the thickened condition of the mucous membrane, either of which prevents the free access of atmospheric air to the tympanum, without which perfect vibrations of its membranes is impossible. When the inflammation extends to the middle ear it produces a thickening of its lining membrane, which diminishes the size of that already small cavity. The quantity of air necessary to the vibration of the drum-head and for the communication of the vibrations to the labyrinth, is correspondingly reduced. The peculiar secretion thrown out so abundantly by the diseased mucous membrane, tends still further to diminish the size of the drum, and to exclude a still further portion of the necessary air.

The small bones of the ear being covered by the mucous membrane are, be its thickened condition, as well as by the diminution of the size of the drum, prevented from acting with that freedom and precision necessary for so delicate a mechanism. Bands of adhesion (similar to the false membranes produced by croup) are sometimes formed by the inflammation between these little bones and the walls of the drum, and their action becomes still further impeded.

Deafness, then, in such cases, is owing to the imperfect or interrupted communication of the vibrations of the drum-head to the labyrinth.

SYMPTOMS OF CATARRHAL INFLAMMATION OF THE TYMPANUM.

The process of inflammation is generally slow and torpid, but occasionally it is acute, or becomes so by aggravating influences.

The chronic form is the one usually assumed in catarrh, and the following symptoms are presented:

The hearing becomes, at times, almost suddenly more or less impaired, and remains so until, during the act of sneezing, coughing, or other muscular effort, a snapping sound, or even a loud, startling report is heard in the ear, when hearing suddenly returns to its normal condition. This phenomenon is produced by the removal of the incrustation which obstructed the eustachian tube during the muscular effort just mentioned, and the consequent rush of air into the middle ear. This state of things may repeat itself for some length of time, the hearing being at times defective, and at others almost perfect, until at length permanent deafness supervenes. Individuals thus affected are generally so accustomed to the return of hearing that they wait for it for months and months, scarcely believing that they will be disappointed, until after waiting sufficient length of time in anxious expectation, hope vanishes, and the sad conviction forces itself on their minds that the hearing is permanently injured.

At other times the hearing is not without any unusual sensation in the ears, and the deafness progresses so gradually that individuals are not aware of their defect until it is so marked as to be noticed by others, (who are usually the first to call attention to it,) or until they miss some such accustomed sounds as the ticking of a clock or the ringing of a bell. Hearing may be considerably impaired before the fact is much noticed in conversation, for we are apt to ascribe to inattention what is really due to defective hearing; and as we articulate more distinctly and speak louder when we find ourselves not readily understood, and the person addressed naturally increases his attention, the real cause of the difficulty escapes attention for some length of time.

The deafness produced by catarrh usually varies in degree, from time to time. During every additional cold, or increase of the inflammation of the throat and nasal passages, hearing will be more defective than usual, and when that has subsided it will apparently return to its former standard. We say apparently, because every severe cold leaves the hearing a little more defective than it was before, but the increase of the deafness is so slight and trifling each time that it is not noticed except in the aggregate, after repeated colds, when those affected find it growing upon them.

In the chronic state of the inflammation there is usually no pain at all, or if there is any, it is but slight and trifling, and scarcely ever amounts to more than a feeling of pressure or fullness in the ear, or an uneasy sensation in the region of the eustachian tubes; should the inflammation become acute, however, it is accompanied by severe pain, known as ear-ache, by heat, restlessness and fever, and is frequently followed by an offensive irritating discharge from the ear.

NOISES IN THE HEAD.

Nearly every disease of the ear is accompanied by noises in the head, and the catarrhal inflammation of the middle ear, forms no exception. They are usually present in every imaginable variety, and resemble the hissing sound produced by the escape of steam, the roaring of the ocean, the beating of the heart, the ringing of bells, the humming of insects, the singing of birds, and almost every other known sound, and become a source of the greatest annoyance and nervous irritation. Persons of nervous temperaments are sometimes nearly driven to despair by this incessant infliction, and they would rather, by far, have the noises removed than the hearing restored, if only one thing or the other could be accomplished.

The direct or immediate cause of the noises remains as yet veiled in obscurity, and may probably ever remain so. We only know that they are present in nearly every disease of the ear, in cases of impactions of ear-wax or slight inflammations of the external canal, as well as in diseases of the tympanum and labyrinth. They are undoubtedly produced by reflex nervous action, but what particular nervous branch is at fault, has as yet not been determined. Usually when the ear is restored to its normal condition the noises gradually subside.

TREATMENT OF CATARRHAL DEAFNESS.

A few remarks in regard to the proper treatment of this particular affection of the ear may here not be out of place. Since catarrh is its inciting cause, it will be evident that no permanent benefit can be derived from any treatment, except that complaint is removed, for its presence would furnish a constant source for relapse, and would gradually bring the whole difficulty back again. A mere removal of the catarrh, however, would not restore hearing by any means, as it is only the exciting, but not the direct cause of the deafness. To improve the hearing the ear requires special treatment, and here the eustachian tube furnishes to the expert aurist the best means of applying remedial agents to the tympanum. This is usually accomplished by passing a small silver tube, called catheter, through the nasal passages into the mouth of the eustachian tube, and through which medicated vapors, gases, compressed air, &c., &c., can be conducted to the very seat of the affection. In cases where this method should not be practicable, as for instance in children or extremely nervous persons, there are other means by which this object can be attained.

The next letter on catarrh may be looked for shortly, and will describe its effects on eye, stomach, breath, &c., &c.

The author can be consulted on catarrh, deafness and diseases of the eye, ear and throat, at No. 24 St. Mark's-place, (Eighth-street, between Second and Third avenues,) from 9 A. M. until 3 P. M.

NOTICE.

IN TO-DAY'S TIMES APPEARS THE FOURTH LETTER ON CATARRH, BY DR. LIGHTHILL, NO. M ST. MARK'S PLACE, and contains a description of the DEAFNESS AND NOISES IN THE HEAD PRODUCED BY CATARRH.

BALM OF THOUSAND FLOWERS.

Is a delightful compound, highly and delicately scented by its own ingredients, for use in the toilet.

FRAGRANT BALM, is its far superior, and more medicinal, than any preparation yet known. It quickly renders them white as alabaster, removing tartar, preventing decay and decay of the teeth, and purifying the breath.

FOR SHAVING the Balm gives a rich, pearly lather, and has no equal in softening the beard soft and tender.

FOR FEMALE COMPLEXION, it will effectually remove sunburn and freckles, imparting beauty and health to the skin.

FOR THE HAIR, it quickly restores color to gray hair, and makes it soft and pliable, then

THE BALM OF THOUSAND FLOWERS, is far preferable to any other article, (costly soaps and similar compounds,) for the toilet.

READ THE FOLLOWING CERTIFICATES OF CURES PERFORMED BY

DR. VON EISENBERG,

NO. 816 BROADWAY,

NEW-YORK.

CATARRH CURED.

NEW-YORK, Aug. 22, 1863.

I have been suffering for the last three years from a severe Catarrh, with a continual dullness in my head, a tightness across my chest, a weight over my eyes, which were weak, watery and very painful. My nostrils were continually obstructed with a pouring of fluid. I have had frequent sneezing, hoarseness of my voice, generally attended with spitting, often with a fullness of my throat, together with a soreness and a dropping. Dr. VON EISENBERG has cured me of all these disagreeable sufferings. I now feel a new life. The treatment of Dr. VON EISENBERG is as skillful as it is successful; it is impossible to overrate the benefit I have received at his hands. I heartily recommend any one suffering like myself to place themselves under Dr. VON EISENBERG's care, with a certainty of being speedily cured. I give this with gratitude and pleasure. I cannot forbear again saying that my voice, which was hoarse and thick when I applied to Dr. VON EISENBERG, is now clear and gold; indeed, I feel abundantly satisfied.

JAMES LITTLE,
No. 245 7th-st., New-York.

NEW-YORK, March 20, 1863.

This is to certify, that I have suffered from very severe CHRONIC CATARRH, with a dull heaviness in the head. I felt my nose completely stopped up, accompanied by continued soreness of the throat, the chills stealing over me with occasional hot flushes, a great tightness of the chest and pain so much so, that every one thought it was consumption. Having heard of the great cures performed by Dr. VON EISENBERG, I consulted him with but little hopes of a cure. I am now happy to be enabled to add my testimonial to the great number already in the Doctor's possession, as to his scientific and successful mode of treatment, as he has shown in my case that skill and knowledge which have procured for him so great a reputation. I am so entirely restored to perfect health that I do most sincerely recommend all sufferers from CHRONIC CATARRH and SORE THROAT to apply at once to Dr. VON EISENBERG with a certainty of being cured. FREDERICK WEBER, No. 180 4th-st.

For further certificates of cures see the eighth page.

I AM CURED!

"I have taken six doses of Radway's Pills, of three pills each, in six days; they cured me of Constipation, Indigestion and Dyspepsia. I have taken R——'s, A——r's, and many other pills for years, and could only obtain temporary relief. If I stopped the use of these pills for a week my old complaint would appear. Six doses of Radway's Pills cured me.

STEPHEN BENNETT, U. S. C. S."

"I have suffered with Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint for seven years—have used all sorts of pills—they would give me temporary comfort, but was compelled to take them all the time. I have used one box of Dr. RADWAY's Pills, I am cured. I have not taken a particle of medicine in six months.

C. M. CHILDS, Roxbury, Mass."

Dr. RADWAY'S Pills always cure, no straining; constipation, false calls to the water-closet, follow their use—they purge freely and cure rapidly.

Sold by RADWAY & CO., No. 87 Maiden-lane, corner of Gold-st., and by druggists generally.

United States Department, New-York, Aug. 22, 1863.

CHAS. G. CORNELL, Street Commissioner.

ARMY CLOTHING AND EQUIPAGE OFFICE, CINCINNATI, OHIO, Aug. 24, 1863.

THE UNDERSIGNED INVITES PROPOSALS until WEDNESDAY, Sept. 9, next, for supplying the following articles by contract, viz.:

Trowsers, Mounted,
Blankets, Wool, Army Standard,
Blankets, Rubber, Poncho Tent,
Overcoats, Horseman's,
Trumpets,
Regimental Colors,
Regimental Guidons,
Black Wadding.

Bids will be received for all these articles or any of them, and bidders must distinctly state in their proposals the quantity of goods they offer to furnish, the price and the time of delivery; and must accompany their bids with a guaranty, signed personally by two responsible parties, agreeing that the bidder will enter into a contract if an award is made to him.

All supplies must be delivered in good new packages, free of charge, at the U. S. Inspection Depot in this city.

Written contracts, of which this advertisement shall be taken as a part, will be given to the party or parties to whom awards are made, and bonds required therefor, in a sum equal to one-fourth the value of the goods contracted for.

The right to reject any bid deemed unreasonable is reserved.

Blank forms for proposals may be obtained on application to the Army Agents at Portsmouth, New-Hampshire, Boston, New-York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and at this Bureau.

A record, or duplicate of the letter informing a bidder of the acceptance of his proposal, will be deemed a notification thereof, within the meaning of the act of 1846, and his bid will be made and accepted in conformity with this understanding.

Every offer made must be accompanied (as directed in the act of Congress making appropriations for the naval service for 1846-'47, approved 10th of August, 1846,) by a written guarantee, signed by one or more responsible persons, to the effect that he or they undertake that the bidder or bidders will, if his or their bid be accepted, enter into such an obligation within ten days, with good and sufficient sureties, to furnish the supplies proposed. The Bureau will not be obligated to consider any proposal unless accompanied by the guarantee required by law; the competency of the sureties to be certified by the Navy Agent, District Attorney, or the Collector of the Port, and by satisfactory evidence that the bidder has the license required by the act of Congress of March 3, 1863.

The attention of bidders is called to the samples and descriptions of articles required, and to the inspection before reception, a part, but rare comparisons will be made between the articles offered and the sample and contract, receiving none that fall below them; and their attention is also particularly directed to the joint resolution of the 27th March, 1844, and to the act of 19th August, 1848.

PROPOSALS FOR HAY, STRAW AND GRAIN.

ASSISTANT QUARTERMASTER'S OFFICE, FORAGE DEPARTMENT, Seventh-st. Wharf, WASHINGTON, D. C., April 16, 1863.

Written proposals are invited for furnishing HAY, STRAW, OATS and CORN for the use of this depot, to be delivered at the railroad depot, or at any of the Government wharves in this city.

The bids to be addressed to the undersigned, and they should state the quality and grade of each article offered, also the price and the date of delivery.

Proposals will be received for five thousand (5,000) bushels of Corn or Oats, and fifty (50) tons of Hay or Straw, and upward, unless it should be for the interest of the Government to contract for a larger amount.

All grain to be put up in good sacks, of about two (2) bushels each, which are to be furnished at the cost of the contractor.

The Hay and Straw to be securely baled.

All Grain and Hay offered to be subject to a rigid inspection by the Government Inspector.

Contracts will be awarded from time to time to the lowest responsible bidders, as the interest of the service may require. Good security will be required for the faithful fulfillment of any contract made under this advertisement.

Payment to be made at the completion of the contract.

PUBLIC NOTICES.

NEW-YORK COUNTY SUBSTITUTE AND RELIEF COMMITTEE.

The Committee hereby give notice that they have fixed their office at the Supreme Court House, No. 71 and 73 Duane-street, up stairs, and that said office will be open daily at 9 o'clock, A. M., until the business for which the Committee was created is finally disposed of.

The Committee also give notice that no application for the payment of Substitute or Relief money will be entertained until the District Board of Enrollment have examined and accepted the person drafted into the United States service under the Act of Congress approved March 3, 1863.

The acceptance of acceptance by the District Board of Enrollment must be presented to this Committee.

The following Rules and Regulations have been adopted in relation to other persons in indigent circumstances who have families depending upon them for support:

I. The term "citizen," employed in the fourth and seventh sections of the Ordinance of the Board of Supervisors, embraces all residents of this City and County liable to draft and service under the Act of Congress.

II. The words, "having a family depending on him for support," which occur in the fourth section of the Ordinance aforesaid, and their equivalent as used in the seventh section of said Ordinance, are intended to mean and include the following cases, that is to say:

1. A married man with a child or children.
2. A widower having a child or children.
3. A man having children, whose wife is dead.
4. A man having parent or parents, or other near relatives, for whom he habitually provides.

Who are wholly dependent upon him for support.

III. Drafted persons in indigent circumstances, situated as above, who are the sole support of his Enrollment are found liable to serve, and who shall elect to serve, and actually be entered into the service of the United States, on applying to this Committee, and satisfying them in regard to the above points, will be furnished with a certificate as provided in the fourth section of the ordinance, which will enable their families to the amount of relief therein expressed, not exceeding the sum of three hundred dollars, which will be paid by the Committee in such installments, and at such times, as will, in his judgment, best afford the assistance needed by such families.

IV. In case any such indigent drafted person, whose liability to serve has been determined by the action of the Board of Enrollment, has a family depending upon him for support, who, by reason of age, infirmity or poverty, is, in the opinion of the Substitute and Relief Committee, a case of peculiar hardship for him to leave them, and he will be unable to procure a substitute within the time allowed, he may report the facts to the Committee, and if satisfied that he has said his best endeavor to obtain a substitute, they will furnish him a certificate to be presented to the Commissioner, who will thereupon pay to the proper officer of the Government the sum necessary to obtain his discharge from the draft.

V. In all cases of applications for the payment of money or substitutes for the drafted persons hereinafter specified, the Committee will require the following particulars to be given to them:

POLICEMEN will furnish written or printed statements, to be subscribed and sworn to by them, setting forth:

1. Their residence, giving the Ward, and the name and number of the street or avenue.
2. Whether they are married or single.
3. The fact of their having been drafted, and in what Congressional District, and whether they have been duly enrolled by or under the direction of the Board of Enrollment, and bound to be liable to perform military duty under the Act of Congress entitled "An act for enrolling and calling out the National forces," &c., passed March 3, 1863.
4. The date of his appointment as a member of the Metropolitan Police, and the place and Precinct within the City and County of New-York where the applicant is stationed or detailed for duty, and the date when the year or regular term of service will expire.

All other applicants must have affixed to it a certificate signed by the captain or other commanding officer of the Precinct to which the applicant belongs, to the effect that the facts stated in the affidavit are true, and that the applicant is a member of said Precinct, and that he is recommended by the Colonel or other commanding officer of the regiment or other organization.

VI. The moneys authorized by the ordinance to be paid for substitutes, as above, will be paid to such applicants, or, if they shall have previously paid the same, at the office of the Comptroller, or such other place or places as he may designate, immediately upon their furnishing him with satisfactory evidence of their acceptance and actual entry into the service.

VII. Blank forms of application for relief under the ordinance may be obtained either at the office of the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors, City Hall, or at the Committee Rooms, numbers seventy-one and seventy-three Duane-street.

CITY INSPECTOR'S DEPARTMENT, NEW-YORK, Aug. 31, 1863.

NOTICE.—THE UNDERSIGNED, FINDING that great labor, time and expense is caused by collecting and removing ashes and garbage, after the same has been thrown on the sidewalks, in front of dwellings, deposit or gutters, by some, and believing it to be the duty of every head in his family to assist the City Authorities in keeping the streets in a neat and cleanly condition, hereby notify your observance of the following REGULATIONS:

Notice will be given of the approach of the ash and garbage carts by the ringing of a bell. Every member in ordinary health and strength is requested to carry the ashes and garbage out to place any other, receptacle or place made of for kind in front of your premises, or upon the sidewalk until said bell is rung.

Carts will pass through the streets of this Ward every day, except Sundays, to collect the ashes and remove all ashes, garbage, &c., from the street.

Complaint of neglect to regularly collect and remove ashes, should be made to the City Inspector, at his office, No. 25 Chambers-st. F. L. A. BOOLE, City Inspector.

Thos. R. Cass, Superintendent of Sanitary Inspection.

Rumored Revolution at Bogota in Favor of the Priests—English Reports—Exodus of Priests from Panama—A Ground Ball, &c.

From Our Own Correspondent.

PANAMA, Thursday, Aug. 27, 1863.

We have no late positive news from the interior. Her Britannic Majesty's frigate Diadem, which arrived at Aspinwall several days since, from Cartagena, brought a rumor from that place to the effect that a revolution had broken out at Bogota against the Government and in favor of the priests. The population of Bogota and its vicinity is the most ardent in its support of the priest party of any in the country, and it may be true that, while Mosquera is absent, the padres have stirred up this excitable people to an attempt to place the power once more in the hands of the Church. Many well-informed people here discredit the rumor entirely, and I must confess that the mere fact that the rumor comes by an English vessel, is sufficient to throw disgrace on it. Nearly all Englishmen have been steadily opposed to the party now in power, and have always delighted in bringing to the Isthmus some account of disaster to it, no matter how slight a foundation might be had for their reports. They do this just as they bring us, almost every month, a circumstantial account of the destruction of the Vanderbilt by the Alabama off St. Thomas or Kingston. It don't make any difference that their reports are falsified every time, they like to circulate them and be kept at it. Something or other they may happen on a bit of truth, and that is encouragement enough to go ahead.

On the 17th inst. the priests resuming in town were cited by Gov. SANTACOLOMA, by means of a circular letter, to appear at his office on the 19th and take the oath to respect and obey the authorities, Constitution and Laws of the Republic; this oath was prescribed by the law of the 23d of April last, making the clergy amenable to the civil law. Three of the leading padres responded in letters which were identical, and the substance of the reply was, they would not do anything of the kind. In consequence of this action on their part, the priests were informed that they must leave the country at the earliest opportunity, and a number took their departure a few days later by the steamer for the South Coast; others will leave from the Atlantic side, going to Venezuela.

On the night of the 23d the Spanish residents of Panama gave a grand ball, at the Cabildo, to the officers of the Spanish Squadron. It was by far the finest affair of the kind that ever came off in Panama.

The large hall of the Cabildo was beautifully draped with flags and tapestry, trimmed with evergreens, wreaths and festoons and tropical bonnets. The hall was brilliantly lighted by lamps in chandeliers and rows of wax lights. All the "beauty and chivalry" of Panama were present to grace the occasion. The toilets of the ladies were unusually splendid, and the beautiful creatures were in the best of spirits.

Music was furnished by the native cotillion band, and the band of the squadron, and daylight had made its appearance in the eastern sky before the tired musicians were finally released from their labors. The supper was altogether the best ever furnished in this city for such an occasion, and we don't want for a few good cooks here. The ball will be long remembered here, and judging from the satisfaction they expressed, will not soon be forgotten by the gentlemen in whose honor it was given.

The two frigates of the squadron—the Triunfo and Resolucion—are coaling at Taboga, and will leave to-morrow for San Francisco, thence to Puget Sound. The gunboat Virjen de Consolenga will leave in a day or two for Central American ports.

The British sloop-of-war Tartar arrived yesterday from the Mexican coast, having on board $7,000,000 in the precious metals. In port at Panama, United States sloop St. Marys, H. B. M. sloops Cherybdis and Tartar.

CENTRAL AMERICA.

Affairs in Salvador—Barrios at the Capital with his Communications Cut Off—Execution of a Conspirator, &c.

From Our Own Correspondent.

PANAMA, Thursday, Aug. 27, 1863.

The Panama Railroad Company's steamer Guatemala, from Central American ports, arrived here on the 21st inst., with twenty-four passengers and the following freight: For Southampton—324 serrones cochineal, 1 bale rubber, 4 packages sundries. For Liverpool—129 serrones cochineal, 6 bales India rubber, 17 bales cotton, 14 bales deer-skins. For New-York—139 serrones cochineal, 1 bag coffee, 1 box silver ore, 24 bales deer-skins, 2,186 hides, 2 cases sundries. For Aspinwall—14 cases balsam, 10 bags coffee. For San Francisco—29 bags coffee. For South Pacific—15 pieces wood, 16 bags coffee, 1 bale cocoa, 1 box sundries. For Panama—8 bags coffee, 47 packages cigar, 10 barrels wine, 7 bags cocoa, 1 bale hats, 2 packages sundries. Specie for Europe—$4,767. For Panama—$2,166. Total, $6,933.

Dates by the Guatemala are as follows: Guatemala to the 10th inst., Salvador 16th, Nicaragua 16th, Costa Rica 10th.

Nothing of interest is reported from any point except Salvador, all the other Republics being in a state of profound quiet.

In Salvador matters have not changed for the better. BARRIOS still holds his Capital, with all his communications cut off, except the single port of Libertad. The Government is without resources of any kind but those derived from the confiscation and sale of goods belonging to parties who have gone over to the enemy. Of course such a source of supply is precarious, and liable to give out at any time.

It was reported at San Salvador that CARRERA had, on the 12th inst., joined ZAVALA at Opico with 2,000 men and some artillery, intending to move on the 14th or 15th on Quezaltepeque, a small village about six leagues from the Capital. Between that place and San Salvador is the steep ascent of Alajo, which is rudely fortified; so it is therefore probable that the advance on the Capital will be made by turn the base of the volcano, and passing by way of Santa Tecla into the road to Libertad, thus hemming the Salvadorians in on all sides.

If CARRERA should attempt a direct assault upon the city it is possible, even probable, that he would be severely punished; but he is an old soldier, and is not likely to risk an assault when by quietly waiting he is sure of his game.

With the road to Libertad closed, the fall of San Salvador would be but a question of time, and a short time at that.

The Honorable MANUEL SUAREZ, recently President of the Supreme Court, who pronounced an oration, in September, 1861, which created a great excitement in the country and resulted in the expulsion of the Bishop and most of the clergy, who has been since a great friend apparently of BARRIOS and his Chief Minister; but who has lately engaged in a pronunciamiento against BARRIOS, was arrested on the 3d inst. at a public office of State Treasurer and carried to the Castle. When brought in he was covered with blood, from wounds received in resisting his captors. It is said that SUAREZ owed his capture to the vengeful feelings of some of the priests who had not forgotten nor forgiven his attack upon their exemption from the civil code.

When it was known at the Capital that SUAREZ was in the hands of the Government the mob at once demanded his execution, and he was notified to prepare for death. Efforts being made by some of his friends to procure his release, the President, in consideration of past services and friendship, agreed to take $12,000 for his release. The money was prepared and counted out, when the mob and the Plaza women sent a deputation to the President, telling him "he could put his money-bags in the trenches to defend them, for they would abandon the defence." SUAREZ, who had up to this moment expected to be set at liberty on the payment of the money, was immediately taken out and shot. The name of SUAREZ stood next to that of GUERRERO in the list of conspirators to overthrow the Government.

SOUTH AMERICA.

Affairs in Chili—Proposed Line of Steamers—Gold and Silver Mines—Bolivia—Uruguay—The Argentine Confederation, &c.

From Our Own Correspondent.

PANAMA, Thursday, Aug. 27, 1863.

The regular British Mail steamer Peru, from South American ports, arrived here on the 21st inst., with 37 passengers and the following freight: For Southampton—273 serrones bark; 23 pks. India Rubber; 24 bags Mistletoe; 3 bales Chinchilla skins; 1 case Hats; 32 pkgs. general merchandise, valued at $100,000 in Specie. For Liverpool—160 bales Cotton; 119 bales Wool; 275 bags Silver Ores; 43 serrones Cochineal; 2 bales Tobacco; 112 pkgs. India Rubber; 3 bales Chinchilla Skins; 13 bags Mistletoe; 13 pkgs. general merchandise. For New-York—346 bales Bark; 32 bales Goat Skins; 98 bales India Rubber; 31 bags Coffee; 132 bags Cocoa. For Panama—160 pkgs. general cargo.

Dates are from Valparaiso to the 2d inst., from Lima and Callao to the 13th, and from Guayaquil to the 18th.

From Chili there is nothing much in the way of news. The little political breeze mentioned in my last has entirely died away, and according to El Mercurio, "a perfect calm rules in that field." True, the papers still have a few words of indignation and contempt to let off at the Congress, but as that body cannot very well reply to such attacks, the talk is all on one side.

The Congress has held but few sessions lately, and is apparently only anxious to kill time till the hour arrives which shall put a constitutional end to its existence.

A project has been brought forward at Concepcion, having for its object the formation of a native Company to run a line of steamers on the coast, going as far south as Port Monit. Seventy thousand dollars were subscribed in a short time by a few merchants of Concepcion and Talcahuano, to the capital of the proposed Company.

A part of the service, intended to be performed by this Company, is already carried on by the British mail steamers, yet there is no doubt that a second well-managed line can find plenty of business for its support. The steamers for this line will be purchased in the United States.

Some extraordinary accounts of the richness of one or two of the gold and silver mines of the north are published in Chili papers. El Mercurio says: "In the silver mines of Loreto y Dolores Tarpena the metal is said to be found in a pure state, and in such abundance that the owners can extract as much as they choose." A Copiapo paper, speaking of a gold mine belonging to Dr. TORRE REANGO, has the following:

"The richness of the mine in question is such as to form an epoch in the annals of our mining business. We are informed that the principal vein is about two metres wide, with ramifications on both sides; the depth cannot yet be ascertained. As the working of the vein progresses, its proportions increase, and the quality of the ore gets better and better. The best ore yields at the rate of $200,000 to the 'cajon,' or 2,400 pounds, and the very poorest descriptions give $1,400 to $2,400 to the 'cajon.'"

The owner of this mine has concluded not to sell any of the product until he has taken out about 20,000 pounds of the best ore. The paper from which the above is taken calculates that this amount, with some 4,000 pounds already mined, will, when melted into bars, be more than any one house in the country can pay cash for.

There has been no advance made toward a settlement of the question with Bolivia about the Mejillones and Atacama district. The troops previously ordered by the Chilian Government into the disputed district, to keep order, have been countermanded. Bolivia has taken no decidedly hostile steps as yet, but the Bolivian press, as well as that of Chili, continues to discuss the matter in the bitterest terms, and the people of both countries are daily growing more exasperated about it. The Chilian Government has appointed a Governor of the province of Atacama, Don Bruno Larrain, the Appointee, was to leave Valparaiso on the 11th, for the field of his official labors. It will appear from this that Chili has not the slightest idea of yielding what she claims to be her rights in the premises.

A letter from Mendoza, capital of the province of the same name, dated July 15, gives a doleful account of affairs in Uruguay and the Argentine Republics. On the 21st June, the Uruguay steamer General Artigas, bound for Montevideo, when passing the Island of Martin Garcia, was taken by an Argentine cruiser. In consequence of this act, the Government of Uruguay has issued a manifesto, in virtue of which all relations with the Argentine Republics are broken off until satisfaction is rendered.

On the night when the news of the capture was received at Montevideo, the Chief of Police, with a number of others, belonging to the "White party," followed by a large rabble, visited the house of Gr. MACKINLAY, Argentine Consul, broke in the windows and destroyed the coat-of-arms over the door of the Consulate. The mob then paraded the streets all night, shouting "Down with President MITRE and his Government." The Press of Montevideo calls upon all the people to arm, and avenge the insult to their flag.

The Government of Uruguay is in a very critical position with this trouble with its neighbors on the one hand, while at home the revolution under FLORES has made such progress that that revolutionary Chief now rules the whole country, except Montevideo, the capital.

The revolution in Cordoba, mentioned in my last, was promptly suppressed. In a battle fought before the City of Cordoba on the 22d of June the rebels were totally routed, leaving about 200 dead on the field, and some 400 prisoners in the hands of the Government forces. It was at first supposed that Gen. UNQUIZA was the instigator of this outbreak; this now appears to have been a mistake. URIZO, who was installed Governor of Cordoba by the Revolutionists, had written to UNQUIZA, offering him the command of the forces, and proposing that they should overthrow the Government of Entre Rios. UNQUIZA immediately sent the communication to President MITRE, and offered him 5,000 armed men to assist in putting down the revolution.

The charge of high treason, long pending against Gen. UNQUIZA, has been withdrawn.

In Buenos Ayres the Senate is considering the question of free banks. The Federal Courts are to be entirely reorganized.

Mendoza is under martial law, and all business is at a stand-still. The courts of law are all closed.

The Peruvians seem to have been entirely taken up lately with the celebration of their independence-day and the reception of the new President, Gen. PEZET, on his return from Europe.

From the 28th of July, the great day, until the 3d of August, the day on which Gen. PEZET arrived, all business was suspended, and the people gave themselves up entirely to the festivities of the time.

Gen. PEZET was received most enthusiastically, both at Callao and Lima, in both of which place the people turned out en masse to welcome him.

The Lima papers remark that neither the President's message to Congress, nor his address to the nation give any clue to the political course to be followed by his Administration.

Vice-President CASTRO retires to private life, carrying with him the universal respect and confidence of the people. Among the latest acts of his Administration may be quoted an order to establish a port on wheels at the Port of Corro Analgo, which institution for the development of the Valley of Chanchamayo, one of the most fertile tracts in the country.

AGAIN NEW TESTIMONY.

READ.

HARLEM, July 20, 1863.

I have been deaf for over twenty-five years, and Dr. VON EISENBERG operated on both of my ears without the slightest pain—a thing that I could not believe could be done. I now hear well, and feel as I never felt for the last twenty years. The dexterity and skill with which the operation was performed evince the highest practical ability. I hear perfectly. It is now over a month since the operation, and I continue to feel as well as ever.

CATARRH CURED.

NEW-YORK, Aug. 20, 1863.

I have been suffering for the last three years from a severe Catarrh, with a continual dullness in my head, a tightness across my chest, a weight over my eyes, which were weak, watery and very painful. My nostrils were continually obstructed with a pouring of fluid. I have had frequent sneezing, hoarseness of my voice, generally attended with spitting, often with a fullness of my throat, together with a soreness and a dropping. Dr. VON EISENBERG has cured me of all these disagreeable sufferings. I now feel a new life. The treatment of Dr. VON EISENBERG is so skillful as it is successful; it is impossible to overrate the benefit I have received at his hands. I heartily recommend any one suffering like myself to place themselves under Dr. VON EISENBERG'S care, with a certainty of being speedily cured. I give this with gratitude and pleasure. I cannot forbear again saying that my voice, which was hoarse and thick when I applied to Dr. VON EISENBERG, is now clear and good, indeed, I feel abundantly satisfied.
JAMES LITTLE,
No. 245 7th-st., New-York.

NEW-YORK, May 7, 1863.

I have great pleasure in testify to the skill of Dr. VON EISENBERG. I went into his office almost completely deaf, and came out with my perfect hearing. It is nearly twelve months since, and the hearing is perfect. The operation, which lasted two or three minutes in each of my ears, gave me no pain whatever. I, with confidence, recommend all sufferers to place themselves under Dr. VON EISENBERG'S unsurpassing skill.
SAMUEL C. HUNT,
No. 6 Meserole-st., Greenpoint, L. I.

No. 134 ALLEN-ST., NEW-YORK, Feb. 8, 1863.

I have been completely deaf in one ear, and partially so in the other, for above seventeen years, with a constant, big discharge from both ears, combined with continual throbbing pains in the head, for which I have been treated by a most eminent practitioner in the City without the slightest relief.

I consulted Dr. VON EISENBERG, but I must candidly say that I had no faith in his success when I did some 10 days, therefore, due to Dr. VON EISENBERG, I acknowledge that I am entirely cured; also, that he displayed that skill and knowledge which have procured for him such an unrivaled reputation. As I have had no opportunity of comparing his mode of treatment with that of others, I can truly state that it is not only superior, but the principles which direct his mode of restoring the hearing are, in my opinion, certain.
JOHN TAYLOR.

NEW-YORK, July 20, 1863.

This certifies that my mother has been for some time afflicted with partial deafness, suffering from pain, and rumbling noises in the head, together with other indications of a total loss of hearing. Dr. VON EISENBERG removed from her ears a great quantity of matter, together with congealed blood, relieving her instantaneously and all without pain. It is with great thanks that I give this testimony to his skill.
CARROLL J. FOST, No. 39 South-st.

SIGHT RESTORED.

JERSEY CITY, June 29, 1863.

My daughter brought her to Dr. VON EISENBERG almost completely blind in both eyes. I could see she was pain nor the light. In a few days she was completely cured by Dr. VON EISENBERG, and called now to express my gratitude to the Doctor for his skill and unremitting attention, by which I recovered one of the most precious organs to me after being deprived of it for four years. It is only due to Dr. VON EISENBERG to state that I have tried several physicians in vain. I shall be happy to bear personal testimony to Dr. VON EISENBERG'S unrivaled success to any lady or gentleman who will call on me.

CHRONIC CATARRH CURED.

READ.

NEW-YORK, March 20, 1863.

"This is to certify, that I have suffered from very severe CHRONIC CATARRH, with a dull convulsive in the head, a falling up in the nostrils, followed by a discharge, accompanied by continual soreness of the throat, the child stealing over me with occasional hot flushes, a great tightness of the chest and pain, so much so, that every one thought it was consumption. Having heard of the great cures performed by Dr. VON EISENBERG, I commenced with him, and was soon a cure. I am now happy to be enabled to add my testimonial to the great number already in the Doctor's possession, as to his scientific and successful mode of treatment, as he has shown in my case that skill and knowledge which have made him so celebrated in his profession. I am so entirely restored to perfect health that I do most sincerely recommend all sufferers from CHRONIC CATARRH and SORE THROAT to apply at once to Dr. VON EISENBERG with a certainty of being cured."

NO ALCOHOL OR BAD WHISKY!

They will cure the above diseases in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred.

Indorsed by the extensive sale and universal popularity of Hoofland's German Bitters, (purely vegetable,) hosts of ignorant Quacks and unscrupulous advertisers, have opened upon suffering humanity the first gates of Nostrums in the shape of poor whisky, vilely compounded with injurious drugs, and christened Tonics, Stomachics and Bitters.

Beware of the innumerable array of Alcoholic concoctions in plethoric bottles and big-bellied bags, under the modest appellation of Bitters, which, instead of curing, only aggravate disease, and leave the disappointed sufferer in despair.

Do you want something to strengthen you?
Do you want a good appetite?
Do you want to build up your constitution?
Do you want to feel well?
Do you want to get rid of nervousness?
Do you want energy?
Do you want to sleep well?
Do you want a brisk and vigorous feeling?
If you do, use HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS.

From Rev. J. Newton Brown, D. D., Editor of the Encyclopedia of Religious Knowledge.

Although not disposed to favor or recommend Patent Medicines in general, through distrust of their ingredients and effects, I yet know of no sufficient reason why a man may not freely use what he believes himself to have found yet from any simple prescription, for the hope that he may thus contribute to the benefit of others.

I do this more readily in regard to HOOFLAND'S GERMAN Bitters, prepared by Dr. C. M. Jackson, of this City, because I was prejudiced against them by the many pretentious nostrums that they seem to share largely in patronage. I am indebted to my friend Robert Shoemaker, jun., for the removal of this prejudice by proper tests, and for encouragement to try them, when suffering from great and long continued debility. The use of three bottles of the Bitters, of the strengthening kind, proved very much followed by evident relief, and restoration to a degree of bodily and mental vigor which I had not felt for six months before, and had almost despaired of regaining. I therefore thank God and my friend for directing me to the use of them.
J. NEWTON BROWN.
PHILADELPHIA, June 22, 1861.

PARTICULAR NOTICE.

There are many preparations sold under the name of Bitters, put up in quart bottles, composed of the cheapest whisky or common rum, costing from 20 to 40 cents per gallon, the taste disguised by Anise or Coriander Seed.

This class of Bitters has caused, and will continue to cause, as long as they can be sold, hundreds to die the death of the drunkard. By their use, the system is kept continually under the influence of alcoholic stimulants of the worst kind, the desire for Liquor is created and kept up, and the result is all the horrors attendant upon a drunkard's life and death.

For those who desire and will have a Liquor Bitters we publish the following receipt. Get any bottle Hoofland's German Bitters and mix with three quarts of good brandy or whisky, and the result will be a preparation that will far excel in medicinal virtues and true excellence any of the numerous Liquor Bitters in the market and will cost much less. You will have all the virtues of HOOFLAND'S BITTERS in connection with a good article of liquor, at a much less price than these inferior preparations will cost you.

ATTENTION, SOLDIERS!
AND FRIENDS OF SOLDIERS.

We call the attention of all having relations or friends in the army to the fact that "Hoofland's German Bitters" will cure nine-tenths of the diseases induced by exposures and privations incident to camp life. In the lists published almost daily in the newspapers, on the arrival of the sick, it will be noticed that a very large proportion are suffering from debility. Every case of that kind can be readily cured by Hoofland's German Bitters. Diseases resulting from disorders of the digestive organs, are speedily removed. We have no hesitation in stating, that if these Bitters were freely used among our soldiers, hundreds of lives might be saved that otherwise will be lost.

We call particular attention to the following remarkable and well-authenticated cure of one of the nation's heroes, whose life, as we hear, he owes to the use of the Bitters:

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 22, 1863.

MESSRS. JONES & EVANS: Well, gentlemen, your Hoofland's German Bitters has saved my life. There is no mistake in this. It is vouched for by numbers of my comrades, some of whom names are appended, and who were fully cognizant of all the circumstances of my case. I am, and have been for the last four years, a member of Sherman's celebrated "Bury and under the immediate command of Capt. R. B. Ayres. Through the exposure attendant upon my arduous duties, I was attacked in November last with inflammation of the lungs, and was twenty-two days in the hospital. The case followed by great debility, leaving me so little flesh, I was a mere skeleton; then removed from the White House, and sent to this City on board the steamer State of Maine from which I landed on the 24th of June. Since that time I have been about as low as any one could be and still retain a spark of vitality. I could not eat, or, if I did, it was dearly able to swallow anything, and if I did force a meal down, it was immediately thrown up again.

I could not even keep a glass of water in my stomach. Life could not last under these circumstances, and accordingly the physicians gave me up, and I was daily fading away, when some one brought me a bottle of the great Hoofland's German Bitters. Almost despairing of life through the fangs of the dread Archer, frankly told me they could do no more for me, and at my request to see a clergyman, and to make such a disposition of my limited funds as best suited me. An acquaintance who visited me at the hospital, Mr. Frederick Steinbrot, of Sixth, below Arch-street, advised me to try Hoofland's German Bitters, and kindly procured a bottle. From the time I commenced taking them the gloomy shadow of death receded, and I am now, thank God for it, getting better. Though I
